New Coal Contract Signed

French Circles Rap U. S. On Eve Of Suez Debate

Iceland Stands Firm For U. S. Troop Removal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—Two days of "frank and friendly" talks at the State Department apparently haven't moved Iceland's Foreign Minister Emil Jonsson from his position that American troops must leave Iceland.

"It is now, as always before, the traditional policy of Iceland to avoid the stationing of armed forces in Iceland," Jonsson told a news conference just before leaving today for Reykjavik, the Icelandic capital.

He said his country still wants the 4,000-man American force withdrawn from Keflavik, leaving the giant NATO air base there to be maintained by Icelanders.

One Concession Possible

The only concession Jonsson appeared to be prepared to make was possibly to allow some foreign specialists—but not soldiers — to be stationed at the base.

"We are ready to keep the base in readiness and maintain it so it will be ready to use in case of emergency," the foreign minister said.

"Those functions which we are not able to take care of ourselves could be taken care of in other ways, not by troops, maybe by some specialists."

Earlier in the day State Department officials were described as moderately hopeful that a compromise could be worked out to continue U. S. operation of the air base.

Further Talks Planned

Jonsson declined to be drawn out about the possibility of a compromise is being reached at further talks to be held in Reykjavik in mid-November.

Iceland has no army of its own. Relations of American troops with Iceland's population have been described as "excellent" by the State Department. But Jonsson said their presence there inevitably created social, economic and political problems.

Big 3 Struggle For U. N. Unity

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 4 (AP)—The Western Big Three struggled today for unity in the U.N. Security Council on the Suez Canal crisis—amid criticism of the United States from abroad, especially from France.

The Council convenes tomorrow to begin debate on the canal issue. For the first time in its history, foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Soviet Union will sit in the Council, plus foreign ministers from Belgium and Yugoslavia.

As the West conferred on a common approach to the problem, a discordant note was sounded in Paris by Andre le Troquer, Socialist speaker of the French National Assembly. He denounced what he called the "near impotence" of U S. Suez policy and blamed it on the election campaign.

Discord Minimized

Some British circles also have been critical of Secretary of State Dulles but spokesmen for the British and French delegations here sought to minimize any disagreements. They said all three countries are united on the major objective, a solution of the canal crisis based on international law and justice.

The Council faces a possible procedural snag at the start. Israel today repeated her request to be heard when the Council debate touches on the unrestricted passage of all ships, including Israeli vessels, through the canal.

In a counter-request, seven Arab countries want to speak when the debate touches on items having a special interest for Syria, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Yemen, Libya or Jordan. Egypt already has been invited to speak.

Two Items On Agenda

Some Council delegates, hoping to avoid a debate which might bring in the Israeli-Arab conflict, predicted the Council would not act on these requests until the Big Powers have made their opening speeches and the debate is well advanced.

Actually, the Council will meet to consider two items:

1. A complaint by Britain and France against Egypt's "unilateral action" ending the system of international operation of the Suez Canal.

2. A complaint by Egypt that some powers, particularly France and Britain, have endangered peace and violated the U.N. Charter.

Five Israelis Die In Ambush

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Oct. 4 (AP)—Israel announced tonight five Israelis were killed and one wounded today in a desert ambush attack on two cars.

The cars were carrying workers home from a potash plant at Sodom. They were on a desert road leading from the south end of the Dead Sea to Beersheba in the Negeb.

The announcement said the cars were brought to a sudden halt by bursts of automatic arms fire from both sides of the road.

The occupants of one car then succeeded in turning it back toward the Dead Sea.

Police rushed to the scene and found four bodies on the road and a fifth in a ditch, the announcement said.

Other reports received here said all four occupants of the leading vehicle, a pickup truck, were killed when it ran into a hail of bullets only a few minutes after leaving Sodom.

First reports of the incident did not identify the attackers. Sodom is 2½ miles from the Jordan-Israel border.

But officials here said the attack took place about nine miles inside the border.

Building Collapse Probes Launched

JACKSON, Mich., Oct. 4 (AP) — Three official investigations were launched today into the roaring collapse of a partly completed office building which claimed the lives of 10 workmen.

Only four bodies have been recovered. But rescue workers said there is no chance the other six missing men could still be alive more than 24 hours after the four-story structure crumbled.

The Consumers Power Co., which had planned to house vital offices in the concrete building, called in two University of Michigan professors in an effort to determine cause of the collapse.

Separate investigations were also ordered by the general contractors, Herlihy Mid-Continent Co., of Chicago, and the architects, Black & Black of Lansing, Mich. The State Legislature may also investigate.

Outlook For Conquering Cancer Better Than Ever

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—Surgeon General L. E. Burney of the U.S. Public Health Service said today the outlook for eventually conquering cancer "is very much more encouraging than it has ever been before."

Commenting that the prospect "is more encouraging than many of our citizens realize," Burney went on:

"In our educational efforts, we have been properly concerned to alert people to the dangers of cancer.

"Perhaps the time has come to give more emphasis to the encouraging trends in research and control."

The recently appointed health service chief made the remarks in an address prepared for a luncheon meeting of staff executives and volunteer leaders of the American Cancer Society, representing 66 of the largest American cities. The officials are meeting here to make plans for a 30 million dollar "crusade" for funds to fight cancer, beginning next April.

Burney said public and private support of cancer research has vastly increased in the last decade.

Burney said very encouraging results have been achieved in detecting cancer of the female cervix with a technique in which cells are gathered from the site and studied microscopically.

"If the potentialities of the cytologic test can be realized in the detection of cancers of other sites," he said, "we will be on the road to even greater savings of life and health. The national cancer institute is pushing forward in this field with great expectations of success."

GOP Won't 'Kid' People On Draft End, Nixon Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—Vice President Nixon said tonight he and other Republican candidates do not intend to "kid the American people in an election year" by holding out hopes that the draft can be ended soon.

Nixon, making a nationwide TV-radio broadcast based on the 32-state tour he completed yesterday, took up the draft issue raised by Democratic presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson. Stevenson has said the draft should be ended as soon as possible, consistent with the national safety.

Nixon said he thinks Stevenson is well-intentioned, but does not have the "background, experience and judgment" which, Nixon said, qualify President Eisenhower for leadership.

Interviewed On TV Hookup

Nixon said he agrees that the draft should be ended as soon as national safety makes it possible, but it was not a subject on which to "kid the American people" in an election year by giving the impression that time will come soon.

Nixon was interviewed, through a television hookup, by eight newsmen from various cities he visited on his 15,000-mile swing.

On other issues, Nixon had this to say:

FARM MATTERS—Farmers in drought-stricken areas such as Texas would be in better shape today if Congress had approved prompt payments under the administration's soil bank plan. While the drought can't be blamed on either party, he said the soil bank in the long run would help farmers in the drought areas by encouraging the withdrawal of marginal lands.

"Partnership" Resources Policy

POWER AND NATURAL RESOURCES—President Eisenhower "has not had the support he should have had in Congress," Nixon said, for proposals he made under his "partnership" policy of developing public resources with emphasis on participation by local public and private interests. He said resources will not be fully developed if the whole job is left to the federal government. The "partnership" program, he said, is designed to develop the most power at the least cost.

Russia Aids Hungary

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 4 (AP) — Russia has granted an emergency credit of 100 million rubles—25 million dollars at the Soviet-fixed rates—to Hungary to help that Communist nation out of its growing economic crisis.

Adlai Campaigns In Harlem

Stevenson Hits "Brazen" GOP Rights Claims

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson tonight assailed what he termed the "brazen" Republican "effort to seize partisan credit for progress in civil rights."

Campaigning on the sidewalks of New York, the Democratic presidential candidate moved into Harlem to say that he is "pretty disgusted" with GOP efforts to take credit for ending segregation in the armed forces.

Harlem is a densely populated Negro area, symbolic of the Northern Negro vote so eagerly wooed by both parties.

In his prepared speech, at the second of two street corner rally appearances tonight, Stevenson mentioned President Eisenhower, his Republican opponent, by name, a procedure that usually is avoided in political speeches by presidential candidates.

Pledges Housing Program

Stevenson spoke at 125th St. and 7th Ave., in the heart of the Negro area which is marked by vast blocks of slum housing, and vowed that if elected public housing would be among his chief programs.

Last month Democratic leaders here were reported to have decided against having Stevenson speak in Harlem during a five-day campaign in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

The reason, it was said then, was because of reported Negro hostility to the Democratic party's civil rights program.

Carmine G. DeSapio, Manhattan Democratic leader, denied later, however, that civil rights figured in the decision. He said the idea for Stevenson's appearance at that time was turned down because of lack of time to prepare a "rousing rally."

Stevenson said he was assistant to the secretary of the Navy in 1941 and 1942 when "we took the first and the hard steps toward removing the racial barriers in the United States Navy."

Truman Order Recalled

In July 1948, he said, President Truman "sounded the death knell of segregation in the armed forces" with an executive order.

"That order was issued despite the testimony of Chief of Staff Dwight D. Eisenhower before a congressional committee on April 2, 1948, that complete desegregation in the armed forces would, as he put it, get us 'into trouble,'"

Rain in the hills of West Virginia just about washed out the Democratic presidential nominee's exacting schedule, just as rain in Brooklyn canceled the second Yankees-Dodger World Series game.

But baseball provided the candidate with material for one of his few comments as he landed at LaGuardia Field.

When newsmen, on the run, asked him how his campaign was coming along, Stevenson called back over his shoulder:

"If I could do as good as Maglie, I'll be all right!"

Tito Ends Visit To Soviet Today

BELGRADE, Oct. 4 (AP)—Yugoslav President Tito will return to Belgrade tomorrow from his Yalta conference with Kremlin leaders, an authoritative source said tonight.

Tito's trip, he said, apparently has failed to settle a policy row within the higher ranks of communism.

Tito left his capital for Russia a week ago with Soviet Communist party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev for what was billed as a vacation on the Soviet Crimea. Khrushchev had been in Yugoslavia on what also was described officially as a vacation.

But reliable sources here said both visits actually were for crucial discussion of party matters—admitted "differences of ideological nature" between Yugoslavia and Russia.

Tito's return after only a week is seen here as strong indication that the Crimea conference failed to clear up the differences.

Communist sources here said Tito went to Russia to help Khrushchev defend himself against growing criticism by other Kremlin leaders who fear results of Khurshchev's de-Stalinization policy. Despite Tito's visit, the sources here said, Khrushchev still is in trouble. His opponents have not relented.

Recess Called In Texas' Move To Stop NAACP

TYLER, Tex., Oct. 4 (AP)—A recess was called today in the District Court hearing on an attempt by the state government to stop the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People from operating in Texas.

State Judge Otis T. Dunagan said, "Legal questions that could be very serious have been called to my attention by both sides. I must have time to study them and will give my ruling in the morning."

Judge Dunagan said the questions concern the restraining order in effect and the temporary injunction asked by the state to halt operations of the NAACP.

NAACP Plan Unfolded

The recess was announced after Texas Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd conferred with the NAACP chief attorney, Thurgood Marshall, and other attorneys.

Earlier today, the state introduced in evidence an NAACP master plan to use children of what it called "sympathetic whites and Latin-Americans" in breaking down the color line in Texas public schools. The plan called for the parents to enter their children in all-Negro schools.

The state also contended that the NAACP had asked Texas labor leaders recently for "appropriate stimulation" in an NAACP drive to bring its total Texas membership to 25,000.

Negro Cabbie Arrested

Meanwhile, at Beaumont police claimed that a Negro taxicab driver, taking his stepson to school, threatened white prosegregation pickets who surrounded his cab at integration-torn Lamar College of Technology.

Police took the driver, Clarence Mason, 39, and his stepson, Lonnie Flanagan, 19, to police headquarters. No charges were filed immediately.

Calcutta Battered By Huge Tidal Wave

CALCUTTA, Oct. 4 (AP)—A roaring tidal wave nearly 24 feet high swept down the Hooghly River today and lashed into Calcutta, India's largest city, and the railroad terminal city of Howrah on the other side.

Bengal State set up emergency teams to evacuate 150,000 persons from their dwellings in both cities because even higher waves were expected tonight and tomorrow.

Gunman Robs Baltimore Bank

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4 (AP)—A lone bandit waving a shotgun held up a crowded branch bank in North Baltimore today and escaped on foot with $4,857. He wrecked his car trying to avoid pursuing police.

The FBI said the man was last seen running between some houses in Homeland, fashionable residential area which lies to the rear of the Union Trust Co.'s branch bank on busy York Road, U.S. 111.

Police said the masked bandit entered the bank shortly before the 2 p.m. closing hour. He marched among the estimated 40 customers, ordering them to "keep your hands over your heads."

Then he quickly vaulted a counter and backed tellers up against the wall. After looting several cash drawers, he again leaped over the counter, went to the door and scooped up a blanket he had used to hide the gun, then fled.

Witnesses said he drove off in a black Pontiac sedan with a police cruiser hot on his heels, less than 30 feet behind.

Swinging around a corner into the residential area, the gunman wrecked his car against a parked vehicle and fled on foot amid a hail of bullets from the pursuing policemen.

Ike Adds Extra Day To Sortie Into Northwest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP) — President Eisenhower agreed today to splice an extra day into his mid-October campaign sortie into the Pacific Northwest.

And the plans still are subject to further change.

Under the revised schedule, Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said, Eisenhower's aerial trip to the Northwest will begin Oct. 16, instead of Oct. 17.

Campaign activities en route—in Minneapolis and St. Paul—will be moved up a day.

Will Address Seattle Rally

Instead of a joint appearance on radio and television with Gov. Arthur Langlie of Washington, who is running for the U.S. Senate on the GOP ticket, Eisenhower will speak at a rally at the Civic Auditorium in Seattle.

Also, the President will spend a night at the home of his brother, Edgar, a lawyer in Tacoma, Wash.

A further revision will cancel out a luncheon Eisenhower was to attend at the Hotel Winthrop in Tacoma. Instead he will go to a box lunch at the field house at Puget Sound College.

Langlie's Suggestion

Hagerty said it was at Langlie's request that Eisenhower will speak at the Seattle rally instead of appearing with Langlie on radio and TV.

Eisenhower will have an extra day in Seattle. Hagerty said some activities may be scheduled for it or the President may use the time for working on speeches.

Times Square Billboard Turned Into Art Gallery

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP) — You never know what you'll see next in Times Square.

Now it's an art gallery on a billboard—three stories above the street.

Mrs. Ruth Hook of 464 Cornelius Drive, Birmingham, Ala., rented the signboard for 10 days for $400 to display her work.

Mrs. Hook figured it ought to be a good way to get some attention for her paintings.

She wants to sell them, at prices ranging from $125 to $400. She'd also like to promote national advertisers into using original paintings in their advertising.

"It nearly threw us," said William Elliott, sales manager for the General Outdoor Advertising Co., describing the company's reaction when Mrs. Hook approached it wanting to rent the signboard.

It's very unusual for a private individual to want to rent a signboard to display paintings.

Elliott said the company finally decided it could be done and "we were happy to do it."

The paintings were hoisted into place today. There are 14 of them on the 12-by-25 foot signboard. It faces Times Square from the third-story level of a building at 7th Ave and 42nd St.

The largest painting is about 50 by 50 inches. Some are as small as 17 inches square. They include portraits, landscapes and a religious scene. From the street level passers-by can just about make out the subject matter.

Pact Provides Two-Step, $2 Day Pay Hike

Operator Sources Say They Expect Price Increases

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4 (AP)—John L. Lewis today signed a new one-year soft coal contract with major producers calling for a whopping $2.40 per day boost in miners' wages and holiday allowances.

The new agreement covers approximately 150,000 of the nation's 200,000 soft coal miners. Lewis said he expected the deal to be a pattern for the rest of the industry.

The signing was done by Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers Union and Edward G. Fox, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Assn. (BCOA), an organization of major northern mine owners and "captive" mines owned by steel firms and utilities.

Lewis and Fox hailed the agreement as insuring a continuation of more than seven years of peaceful labor relations in the once strife-torn industry.

Nation "Will Profit"

Lewis said the entire nation "will profit" from the continued lack of labor strikes in the industry. He contrasted the recent labor peace to the long era of strikes, court hearings and injunctions in the past and said the new way of doing things certainly was "more comfortable" for all concerned.

The agreement calls for a two-step, eventual $2.00-per-day wage boost. It will bring miners' daily pay eventually to a basic $22.25 rate. The miners will get a $1.20 hike, retroactive to last Monday, and an additional 80 cents effective next April 1. In addition, double time pay for work done on holidays and Sundays was stipulated along with an increase from $140 to $180 for an 11-day summer vacation plus $40 in Christmas holiday pay.

The holiday pay and extra overtime pay provisos were valued at 40 cents per day in addition to the eventual $2 daily boost in straight wages.

Price Increases Likely

Fox told newsmen he could not say whether the wage hike will be followed by coal price increases. He said it will depend on the productive efficiency of individual mines.

Lewis appeared to have no doubt, however, that coal price increases will be forthcoming. He laughingly mentioned that he was sure subsequent coal price increases will be "much less than the $8.50 per ton on steel" following the recent industrywide steel labor agreement.

Actually, coal industry sources have said they expect coal prices to be boosted by 25 to 50 cents a ton at the mine, perhaps with a similar hike next April 1.

Health Officer Firing Upheld

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 4 (AP) —The Florida State Board of Health today told Dr. Deborah Coggins "we acknowledge and recognize" that she has been dismissed as health officer of three north Florida counties.

Dr. Wilson T. Sowder, state health officer, added, however:

"I told her in a letter I still had a very high opinion of her both personally and as a county health officer and that her record at the State Board of Health was good."

Dr. Coggins, 32, was fired by Madison, Jefferson and Taylor counties after she had a business lunch with a Negro nurse.

At Madison, Dr. Coggins said she will stop work as Madison health officer since the County Commissioner had left the matter up to the board of health.

Warrant Is Issued For Haymes' Arrest

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4 (AP)— A bench warrant for singer Dick Haymes' arrest was issued today when he failed to appear in Superior Court to answer a contempt citation.

His former wife, Nora Eddington Haymes, has charged that Haymes is $12,150 behind in the $100-a-week alimony he is supposed to pay her. The warrant was requested by attorney Saul Ross, who told the court:

"He tells us it cost him $100,000 to be married to Rita Hayworth. We want to get him before he loses any more."

Judge Doyle commented:

"I wonder how much she lost."

Nora divorced Haymes in 1953.

Estes Says Dewey Taking 'Low Road'

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4 (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver today jabbed back at Thomas E. Dewey's charges against Adlai Stevenson, declaring that "apparently it has been decided by the Republican high command that Mr. Dewey will be the one taking the low road this time."

But while he made the "low road" charge against the two-time Republican presidential nominee, Kefauver said he still believes the campaign tactics of Vice President Nixon will remain an issue of the 1956 campaign.

The Democratic vice-presidential nominee criticized both Dewey and Nixon as he made his first campaign foray into California in a bid for that state's 32 electoral votes.

The senator was asked at a news conference about Dewey's charge in a nationally televised speech last night that Stevenson was an "ill-informed, impulsive and mediocre man."

Kefauver replied that actually Stevenson was "exceedingly well-informed" and "extremely able," and said:

"I would expect that from Mr. Dewey. I suspect the reason is that Mr. Stevenson has made real headway in this campaign.

"We're on the road to victory. We can look forward to more underhanded statements of a similar nature from Mr. Dewey."

Kefauver, campaiging in Nixon's home territory, took several opportunities to make cracks at his rival.

Asked by reporters if he believed Nixon had robbed the Democrats of a hoped-for campaign issue by his conduct in this campaign, the senator said he did not.

"The issue was made by Nixon a long time ago," he said, "by his voting record and by the statements he made about innocent people.

"There hasn't been the vituperation and name calling so far in this campaign but it is not clear whether this is election measles or a genuine change. If it is genuine he should apologize to the people he has damaged and he has not done so."

Former Capone Lawyer Placed On Probation

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (AP)—A former Capone lawyer and income tax evader was placed on a year's probation today by a federal judge who termed the case " strong reminder that the power to tax is the power to destroy."

"I have in mind that you've suffered enough," Judge Joseph Sam Perry of U.S. District Court told Abraham Teitelbaum, 50, who once represented the family of Al (Scarface) Capone, late Chicago gang boss.

"Ten years ago," the judge told Teitelbaum, "you were a well-to-do man. Now you're a man without means because of the debts you incurred in paying off the taxes. You've lost your law practice. This is a strong reminder that the power to tax is the power to destroy."

The judge granted probation on an indictment charging evasion of $223,353 in income taxes. He suspended a one-year prison term on a second indictment.

Teitelbaum paid $135,060 in 1946 and 1947 taxes and an additional $199,800 in fraud penalties and interest and still owes $86,293 on his 1950 and 1951 taxes.

Moores Day In Court

LONGVIEW, Tex., Oct. 4 (AP)—There were more Moores in Longview's District Court today than is recommended for legal clarity.

The divorce suit of Boxie James Moore of Longview against Effie Mae Moore of Philadelphia was called to trial by Judge David C. Moore.

One of the jurors was M. E. Moore.

Honest Railroader Awarded $62,500

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (AP)—A railroad officer today commended an injured employe's honesty and authorized a $62,500 settlement of the worker's $150,000 suit against the road.

Gordon E. Archie, 29, of East St. Louis, admitted he was partly to blame for a head injury suffered May 21, 1954 when the handle of a brake slipped from his hands.

Joseph H. Wright, vice president and chief counsel of the Illinois Central Railroad, praised Archie for his admission and said:

"Archie honestly stated he was partly responsible. We are glad to make prompt and reasonable settlement. I wish all were as honest as Archie has been."

Wright told the switchman his job is waiting when he is able to resume work.

Defense Blasts 'Specs' O'Keefe At Brink's Trial

BOSTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—Defense summations ripped savagely into the prosecution's chief witness today as the $1,219,000 Brink's robbery trial moved toward the jury.

Indications were the all-male Suffolk Superior Court jury might get the case tomorrow night or more likely Saturday morning.

The defense's stated view is that the prosecution's case stands or falls on the testimony of Joseph J. (Specs) O'Keefe, 48, who swore he robbed the Boston vaults of Brink's, Inc., with the eight defendants and two others now dead. For that reason O'Keefe, no longer in court, became the target of the heaviest defense ammunition.

O'Keefe was branded "a convicted thief, an admitted thief," "a repulsive image," a "polluted source" unworthy of belief and, sarcastically, "the great revealer of underworld activities" and "the chief collaborator of law enforcement in the U.S."

The prosecution announced that it would not press the armed robbery and breaking and entering charges against defendant Joseph E. McGinnis, 53, previously described as the "brains and director" of the robbery on Jan. 17, 1950.

Pennsylvanian Dies After Cars Collide

WARFORDSBURG, Pa., Oct. 4 (AP)—Edward R. Merkel, 21, of Braddock, Pa., was fatally injured today when his car collided with another near this Fulton County community three miles north of the Maryland line.

State Police said Merkel's car, southbound on Pennsylvania 126, apparently skidded on the rain-soaked highway, crossed the center line and collided almost headon with a car driven by Joseph W. Biscoe, 24, of West Newton. Biscoe was not hurt.

Merkel was taken to War Memorial Hospital in Berkeley Springs, W. Va., where he died of a crushed chest and other injuries about six hours later. Berkeley Springs is just 11 miles south of here.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4 (AP)—Walter S. Heller, 66, partner in the investment banking firm of Heller, Bruce and Co., leaped to his death today from his 12th-floor offices in the Mills Tower Building.

Army Displays Mystery Gun, 200-Mile Missile

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md., Oct. 4 (AP)—The Army displayed today a mystery gun which appeared intended as a new lightweight atomic artillery piece.

Also displayed at the annual American Ordnance Assn. weapons show was the Army's 200-mile range Redstone ballistic missile. The general who demonstrated the Redstone, without actually firing it, called it a "high accuracy" weapon and said it is completely immune to any known method of diverting the missile from its flight to a target.

It was announced that the Redstone "will soon take its place in the nation's arsenal of operational weapons."

The new gun is a 175 mm. tube —about 7 inches. It weighs 37 tons including its 15-ton self-propelled carriage.

This compares with 86 tons for the 280 mm. atomic cannon.

Army officials demonstrated for the 5,000 AOA members, the new gun using a nonexplosive practice shell weighing only 150 pounds. They were carefully noncommittal about the weapon's nuclear capabilities. To a direct question by newsmen, they replied only that, "There is no announcement regarding the gun's atomic potential."

Sen. Kennedy Hit With Girls

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4 (AP)—A handsome U.S. senator caused a near-riot today when girl students at Ursuline College shouted, squealed, blocked his car and yelled: "You're better than Elvis Presley!"

The welcome failed to ruffle John F. Kennedy, the Massachusetts Democrat who just missed getting the vice-presidential nomination.

Kennedy, en route to Owensboro for a talk tonight stopped at only two places here: at Ursuline College and at a television station.

Students at Ursuline gave Kennedy a standing ovation when he was introduced as a "Catholic and a statesman." He got a similar ovation when he finished his speech, which dealt with foreign affairs and Republicans' claims of world peace.

As he left the college, the ovation for Kennedy reached a crescendo. He virtually had to fight his way to a waiting automobile. As he got under way, girls lined the driveway clear across the campus and stopped the car frequently to ask for his autograph.

Squeals filled the air and there were shouts of, "We loved you on TV" and "You're better than Elvis Presley!"

Eight Feared Trapped In Hull As Ship Sinks

IJMUIDEN, Netherlands, Oct. 4 (AP)—The capsized Polish fishing trawler Syranka, with eight men feared trapped in her hull, sank late tonight.

She suddenly disappeared in the sea shortly before midnight, the Polish Fisher Depot-ship Morskawola announced.

It gave no further details.

Six of the 14-man crew were picked out of the sea where the trawler overturned in rough seas, about 100 miles off the British North Sea coast on the Dogger Bank. Fishing boats picked up the men.

The survivors told rescuers they heard sounds of knocking from inside the hull of the capsized vessel before it sank.

French Pursue Rebels

ALGIERS, Oct. 4 (AP)— French forces pressed a pursuit on nationalist rebels south of Oran today in an effort to avenge the deaths of 39 young draftees in two clashes.

Most of those killed fell under rebel fire in the Aflou area last night while rushing to rescue another unit fighting off a nationalist ambush. About 30 French soldiers were reported wounded in the course of the day.

Singapore Fight On 5th Column Reds Is Upheld

SINGAPORE, Oct. 4 (AP)—Singapore's fighting chief minister won support today in his declaration of all-out war on Red China's secret army in this strategic island colony.

Chief Minister Lim Kew Hock told the colonial Legislature his government "intends to fight subversive elements to the bitter end." He referred to the Chinese Communist overseas cultural army, a force which Mao Tze-tung once described as necessary for the purpose of "uniting ourselves as well as vanquishing the enemy."

"There has been a change in Communist strategy," he said. "There has been intensive penetration into a wide field of otherwise laudable activities which is building up a position of powerful force that threatens the whole future of democratic government."

Lim won a 23-5 vote of confidence on a resolution calling for strong action against the Communist fifth column. He introduced it to counter an attempt by Lee Kuan Yew, a member of the People's Action party, to have the government censured for arresting and banishing nine Chinese leaders.

Lim said six Chinese under banishment orders "owed their loyalty elsewhere" while three others under detention were working to overthrow the colony's government.

The Pennsylvania Dutch emigrated from Germany to the United States.

Ike's Big Bubble-Topped Limousine Piles Up Miles

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—That bubble-topped limousine in which President Eisenhower makes public appearances is piling up a lot of mileage which he doesn't put on it. It is unusually busy this campaign year.

In the last few weeks the specially constructed Lincoln with the removable plastic dome over the rear seat has shown up in such widely spaced places as San Francisco, Panama, Cleveland and, yesterday, New York.

Whereas Eisenhower usually flies from place to place, the bubble-top is driven by the Secret Service. Panama was an exception — it was taken there by ship.

The plastic dome was provided so people can see the President when he is riding in the car. There are a couple of lights to illuminate him at night. And, if Eisenhower prefers and the weather permits, the plastic top can be removed entirely and fitted into the trunk.

Sometimes time and distance won't allow shifting the bubble-top from one city to the next on Eisenhower's route. In that event, Eisenhower uses one of two specially built and equipped Secret Service cars. With two of them, the Secret Service can leapfrog them from point to point.

The cost of getting the bubble-top around is borne by the Secret Service. All it pays for, though, is the gasoline and oil. The machine is leased from the Ford Motor Co. and the rental includes tires, repairs and the like.

The gasoline bill is met by the Secret Service, rather than by the Republican National Committee, when Eisenhower is out campaigning because the Secret Service is charged by law with protecting the President at all times.

German Persecution Damages Tax-Free

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—The government ruled today it will not collect income taxes on the damages paid by the Federal Republic of Germany to American victims of Nazi persecution.

More than 50,000 citizens and residents of this country are entitled to such compensation, Commissioner Russell C. Harrington of the Internal Revenue Service estimated.

Harrington said the service had decided that the payments covering damage to "life, body, health, liberty, or to professional or economic advancement" do not represent taxable income under the federal tax laws.

The German government expects to pay some 3½ billion dollars in Germany and elsewhere as restitution for the brutality, property seizures, imprisonment and other crimes committed by the Hitler regime.

West Europe Unification Requires Currency Pool

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

France and Germany, in settling their differences over the Saar, ran into two of the difficulties faced by those who are supporting European unification.

In spite of the creation of the European Coal and Steel Community under supranational controls, there is as yet no currency pool through which the participating nations can pay for imports in their own money.

Strange as it may seem, the West German mark has, in just eight years, become the hard money of Europe.

For that reason France had to retain large coal production rights in the Saar while agreeing to German political control. Otherwise she would have had to pay for the coal in marks, further deteriorating the franc.

This is going to be an important factor in every country's consideration of the now-proposed atomic pool and free trade area.

Another problem is to maintain the principle, under the supranational agreements now existing and being extended, of equal representation for France and German in the control authorities. These authorities so far work on the expressed principle that the delegates become non-nationalistic. In practice, political balance must be maintained between the Big Two, France and Germany. In the Coal and Steel Community, representation is based upon production.

In the case of the Saar, return of its coal production to German control would have created imbalance in the community and might have produced a political problem there.

A third problem, among many others, also is to the fore at the moment because of West Germany's adoption of a one-year draft law as compared with the longer terms of France and Britain.

Long-term conscription places a heavy load on any nation's economy. France and Britain are struggling to maintain their foreign trade in the face of a brilliantly resurgent Germany.

Chancellor Adenauer has sought to place the blame for the short-term draft decision on the currency in Germany of reports that the United States planned drastic cuts in its own military manpower. The so-called "Radford plan" has been denied by the United States, but the denials failed to correct the political impact of the original reports. There are reports, indeed, that the United States never conveyed the denials to the Bonn government until this week.

Uruguay Praises Somozo's Assassin

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 4 (AP)—Uruguay's Chamber of Deputies today approved a resolution praising the slain assassin of President Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua.

Only 44 of the chamber's 99 deputies were present when the vote was taken, and 38 approved the measure offered by Julio Pons. All 44 then stood in respect to the memory of Ribgoberto Lopez Perez, the young Nicaraguan who fatally wounded Somoza Sept. 22. Lopez Perez was killed on the spot by the Nicaraguan president's guards.

Support of Pons' measure came from parts of all Uruguayan political parties represented in the chamber, including one Communist.

State Rights Organization Plans Richmond, Va. Rally

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP) — The Independent States Rights group announced today that its presidential candidate, former federal tax chief T. Coleman Andrews, will make his acceptance speech at a Richmond, Va., rally on Oct. 15.

The organization, outlining plans for a "states rights-tax reform" rally at Richmond, also announced the formation of a national committee composed of 39 business, educational and professional figures from 28 states.

A number of independent political groups are supporting the ticket headed by Andrews. Their avowed aim is to win enough electorial votes to bar both major parties from getting a majority—an eventuality that would throw the election into the House of Representatives.

Andrews, former internal revenue commissioner under President Eisenhower, has listed himself in the past as a Democrat. His running mate is former Republican Rep. Thomas H. Werdel of Bakersfield, Calif.

Undertaker Loses

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 4 (AP) — Artist Egbert Oudendag testified in court he agreed to stay in Max Kaye's funeral parlor while he painted two portraits of the undertaker.

"Many nights I shared my lodgings with one, sometimes two corpses," Oudendag complained.

Judge Timothy J. McKenna ordered Kaye to pay the $160 still due on the portraits. He dismissed the undertaker's counter claim against the artist for transportation—and lodging.

Jr. CC Dance Will Aid Sylvan Retreat Recreation

The welfare projects were discussed and reports were given at the meeting of the Junior Woman's Civic Club Wednesday evening in the Civic Club House. Mrs. Bruce Douglas presided.

Mrs. Marion Hull, Welfare chairman, announced the club's annual benefit dance will be held November 24 at the Cumberland Country Club. Peck Mills' Orchestra will play. The club voted for the proceeds to be used for Sylvan Retreat to provide recreation, and it was suggested, depending on the amount made, to purchase equipment for moving pictures or a TV set for the men and one for the women. Also, it was voted to continue the annual project of providing new dolls which the members will dress for Christmas distribution.

All members were urged by Miss Kay Avers, Civic chairman, to register and to vote and to use their influence to get their families and friends to do so. Her committee, she said, is selling UNICEF greeting cards. Mrs. Maurice Goodman urged the members to support the current membership drive of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Representing the American Home, Fine Arts and Ways and Means committees, Mrs. Conrad Hoshing announced they are going to sponsor a group to make Christmas decorations and Christmas gifts for sale at the Christmas meeting. These committees also are sponsoring a workshop for those interested in dried flower arrangements. It will be conducted by Mrs. Gilbert Miller.

Two members of the Junior club were named to assist on the House committee for the senior club's Civic House, and two on the Hospitality committee. Mrs. Howard Buchanan and Mrs. Hoshing were named on the House committee; Mrs. F. Perry Smith and Mrs. Raymond H. Lapp Jr., the Hospitality committee.

A letter from Robert O. Bonnell, chairman of the State Roads Commission, thanking the club for letters supporting the inclusion of Route 40 from Hancock to Washington, Pa., in the United States Highway System, and a request (which the club agreed to) to send similar letters to the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, was read by Miss Louise Lippold. Mrs. Douglas read a letter from the state junior chairman regarding proposed changes in the by-laws of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs pertaining to junior club work. The club voted to approve the change.

Announcement also was made of the District 1, Maryland FWC meeting to be held October 10 in McDaniel Hall, Western Maryland College, Westminster at 10:30 a. m. Mrs. Douglas and Mrs. Miles Thompson Jr., are going and all members who could were urged to do so. An invitation was received to attend the reciprocity night of the Junior Woman's Club of District 6, at College Park, October 18.

Mrs. Robert W. Huck, chairman of Mental Health for the District 1, MFWC, spoke on her visit at Sylvan Retreat. Miss Jean Camper, supervisor of special education for the Board of Education, spoke on retarded, deficient and physically handicapped children.

Following the program refreshments were served. Miss Dorothy Campbell was chairman with Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Goodman, Mrs. Harold W. Hawkins, Mrs. Paul Morgan, Mrs. Marvin Kaplon, Mrs. Edward Mason and Miss Virginia Harmison, hostesses.

The Light Sharers Class of Second Baptist Church will meet at 7:30 tonight at the home of Helen Bosley, Bedford Road.

The Women's Exchange, sponsored by the Woman's Civic Club will open today from 10 until 3 at the club house, 515 Washington Street.

Books Group Selects Program

A discussion of Jean Racine's tragedy, "Phaedra," based on the Greek legend of the daughter of Minos, featured the program at the meeting of the Great Books Group of the Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women, Monday at the home of Mrs. Paul Castelle, LeFevre Road.

Mrs. A. J. Mirkin presided and books were assigned to four members of the group to present the program for the Literature Group of the Woman's Civic Club, October 11. Mrs. Amer Suter will be moderator on the panel of summer reading. Mrs. Milton Beneman will present, "The Mandarins," by Simone de Beauvoir; Mrs. Castelle, "Birth of Britain," by Winston Churchill; Mrs. G. Morgan Smith, Eugene O'Neil's play, "Long Day's Journey into Night," and Mrs. Ralph Webster, "Profile in Courage," John Kennedy, Mrs. Mirkin will introduce the group.

"Phaedra" was discussed by Mrs. Max Bastian from the artist's viewpoint. She used charts showing the outline of the play, pointing out the construction of the play as one would a painting, and explained it, showing the conflict, repetition and analogy in construction of a work of art. Mrs. Granville Shirley's discussion was shown from a musical point of view as a symphonic poem. Other members discussed it from a literary point of view. Taking part were Mrs. Howard Tolson, Mrs. Finley Thompson, Mrs. Royce Hodges, Mrs. Suter, Mrs. Webster, Mrs. Howard Briggs, Mrs. William Durland, Mrs. W. A. VanOrmer, Mrs. George Griffith, Mrs. Milton Granet and Mrs. Albert Eskin. Guests were Mrs. Gordon Bowie and Mrs. Robert Clark.

The ceremony was performed October 3, in Braddock Street Methodist Church, Winchester, Va., by Rev. F. N. Oglesby, pastor. There were no attendants.

Uncommitted And Independent Voters To Decide Which Way California Goes

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 4 (AP)—California's presidential paign points vitally at a great bloc of uncommitted and independent voters.

At this time four years ago it was pretty apparent Dwight D. Eisenhower would sweep the state and he did.

Today it's just as clear some shrinkage has occurred in the ranks of Democrats who will support the President again.

"I voted for a change in '52," a Los Angeles Democrat said, "but I don't like what I got."

A mechanic in a small town said he was concerned that Eisenhower might not be able to finish his term, and he didn't want to see Vice President Nixon take over.

"I'm just plain disillusioned," said a ship worker in Vallejo, near San Francisco.

Talk like this hasn't reached any landslide proportions. Busy building a bigger state to absorb the thousands of new arrivals, California in fact has shown little excitement over the contest for its 32 electoral votes.

But the Democratic trend has given special emphasis to the new voters and those who stayed away from the polls in the June presidential primary. There are enough of them — better than two million — to swing the election.

Altogether, close to six million Californians will be eligible to vote Nov. 6. Registered Democrats outnumber Republicans 3 to 2.

Some points the Republicans will concede: The Democrats are organized and united as never before. They have a ticket popular with California Democrats. They have had success in recent state elections in getting their preponderant registration to vote Democratic.

Republican leaders acknowledge they were hampered at the outset by over confidence and the party splitting quarrels involving Nixon, Sen. William F. Knowland and Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

Mrs. Marjorie Benedict of Berkeley, Republican national committeewoman, said that's all over now, and "I honestly think that unless something unforeseen happens, President Eisenhower will run stronger than he did in 1952."

Street corner talks with people all over the state indicated that Adlai Stevenson by no means can count on a straight party vote — and hence an assured victory in the state.

"I'm a Democrat, but I dunno," said a Negro cab driver in Los Angeles. "Seems like Adlai put his big foot in his mouth on civil rights."

A Negro minister who supported Stevenson in '52 said he was undecided. Another Democrat, in Pasadena, said he would stick with Eisenhower because "he's a man of peace."

Even in the agricultural Central Valley, where Stevenson figures to run best, a farmer tells you, "I voted for Stevenson last time and I may again, just because I'm a Democrat. But Ike has done some good for the farmers, I got to say that."

A decline in farm prices and a deep rooted Democratic tradition encourage Democratic predictions that Stevenson, aided by Sen. Estes Kefauver's rural popularity, will carry the long, flat farm belt from Bakersfield to Sacramento by 100,000 votes.

Eisenhower lost only 9 of the state's 58 counties four years ago by a relatively small margin, and most of them were in the same Central Valley. He more than made up the deficit with a 276,000 majority in Los Angeles county, which has 42 per cent of the state's voters.

Nobody questions Eisenhower's high standing with Republicans. Unopposed, he won a warm expression of confidence from 1,354,764 of 2,277,530 Republicans registered in the primary. This exceeded the Democratic preference tally for Stevenson by 214,800.

In June, however, voters could mark only their own party ballot, preventing a direct test between Eisenhower and Stevenson. An-

Church Book Helps Man Go To Gallows With Peace In Heart

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—Early this year a tired and troubled man dropped into a cafe in Vancouver, B.C.

Someone had left a card on the counter. It offered free Bible lessons.

"Why I picked it up," William J. Graham recalled later, "I don't know. It almost forced itself into my pocket. Now I can see it was the providence of God.

"I sent to Los Angeles and got my first Bible lessons. A little book, 'Steps to Christ,' was enclosed. My son was in trouble, and I wondered if I ordered one of these books for him, would it do him any good? I did order one for him from the Bible school."

Graham's son, Robert, 24, was indeed in trouble. He was in the death house of New Westminster Prison, sentenced to hang for the murder of Harold Holman, 21, kicked to death in a fight.

The story is told in the Seventh-day Adventist publication, Review and Herald, quoting from a tape-recorded interview between the elder Graham and the Rev. R. A. Rentfro of the Vancouver Adventist church.

"When your son read the book, what was his reaction?" Rentfro asked.

"He not only read the book through," Graham replied, "but the warden tells me that he memorized it from cover to cover."

"Would you tell us what your son's final request was concerning the book?"

"He requested that the Adventist church supply a number of copies for his personal friends and for the members of his immediate family, hoping of course that it would lead them to Christ as it had him."

The church gave 50 copies of the 126-page pocket-sized book to the father to be distributed as his son had asked.

Robert Graham was hanged last May 22.

"He face death," reports Rentfro, "with peace in his heart and full confidence in his Savior."

"This type of experience," says Seventh-day Adventist headquarters in suburban Takoma Park, Md., "has occurred many times."

The book was written in 1892 by Ellen G. White. Mrs. White, who never finished grammar school, was one of the pioneers of the Adventist faith. She died in 1915. Altogether she wrote 45 books on education, health, technology and the home.

"Steps to Christ" has now been printed in 75 languages and duplicated in the Kikuyu dialect of West Africa.

Five languages have just been added: Korean (with English in parallel columns), Turkish, the Tongan dialect of the South Pacific, and Ibo and Yoruba, which are West African tongues. It is also produced in braille and "talking book" records for the blind.

More than eight million copies have been sold, a half million to an organization supplying books to the armed services in the two world wars and the Korean fighting.

What is the book?

Adventist headquarters describes it as "a nondoctrinal book pointing the reader to the joy of a closer relationship with Christ and helping him to find that relationship."

Poles Believed Censoring Riot Trial Reports

POZNAN, Poland, Oct. 4 (AP) — The first indication of censorship in Polish newsmen's reporting of the Poznan riot trials was noted by Western correspondents here yesterday.

They observed that the Poznan newspaper Glos Wielko Polski discarded its own reporter's account of a defense lawyer's final plea in the trial of three youths for beating to death a secret policeman during the June 28 riot. Instead the paper published the version of the Communist controlled official Polish News Agency (PAP).

Glos Wielko Polsi said it was doing this because of circumstances beyond the control of its reporter or its editorial board.

Western correspondents were told that the Poznan paper's reporter's account was "not quite complete." But it was observed that the official PAP version failed to report the court spectators loudly applaused when the defense counsel finished his plea.

PAP also deleted from the lawer's text his references to speeches made by some Polish leaders and statements published in Warsaw newspapers.

Bomb Fallout Data Turned Over To U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. Oct. 4 (AP)—The United States gave the U.N. today nine volumes of data tending to show that fallout from nuclear bomb tests has not yet reached a dangerous level.

It told of a quarter million samples collected throughout the world by exposing foot-square film sheets.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's analysis of these samples showed the average dose of gamma radiation from fallout was only 3 per cent of what the average individual gets naturally from cosmic rays and radioactive soil materials. Such radiation is said to be directly harmful only at high levels.

The books were sent to the U.N. Scientific Committee on the Effects of Atomic Radiation.

Too Costly To Feed

VERVIERS, Belgium, Oct. 4 (AP) — A couple of buffalo are going to be slaughtered and their meat sold to the public. The reason: The Spa Zoo couldn't afford to feed them.

ANTI-TANK GUIDED MISSILE—The Army's new anti-tank weapon, a small guided missile, is shown in a display rack on a small truck. A single hit by the Dart, as the new five-foot long missile is called, will destroy a heavily-armored tank, the Army believes. It is propelled by a rocket motor burning smokeless fuel and is sufficiently maneuverable as to be relatively safe from rifle, machine-gun and antiaircraft fire. (U. S. Army photo via AP Photofax)

First In Surgery

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Oct. 4 (AP) — A university surgeon will perform Indonesia's first operation to separate Siamese twins. Dr. Mohamad Salim is studying films of successful surgery performed on Siamese twins at Tulane University, New Orleans. Tulane loaned the films to Gadja Mada University, where Selim is professor of surgery.

Johnson, Smathers See Demos Winning South, Border States

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4 (AP)—Sens. Johnson (D-Tex) and Smathers (D-Fla) buzzed into Maryland on a campaign money-raising mission today and predicted Democratic victories in the South and the Border States in next month's elections.

"I like Ike myself—as a man," said Johnson, Senate majority leader, "and there's no question that he is still personally popular with many people."

But, added Johnson, he is convinced enough voters have become disillusioned by the policies and actions of the Republican Administration in general to give the Democrats the edge Nov. 6.

Smathers, attending a press conference with Johnson before they addressed leading potential campaign contributors at a luncheon, said the Democrats "have a good horse" in Mahoney, former chairman of the Maryland racing commission.

"We think he'll get Maryland back into the Democratic column, where it belongs," added Smathers.

Mahoney is running against Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md), who unseated veteran Democratic Sen. Millard E. Tydings in 1950.

Smathers, asked whether his committee regards Maryland as a key State, replied that the slim 49-47 Democratic majority in the Senate means "they're all key states."

About 50 persons attended a pre-luncheon reception given by Albert L. Sklar, Mahoney's finance committee chairman, and sponsors said some 125 were at the luncheon.

The group included Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, former U.S. Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman, E. Brooke Lee, veteran Montgomery County party figure, and others who consistently have opposed Mahoney in four Maryland primaries.

Other guests were Leslie Biffle, former secretary of the U.S. Senate; Bobby Baker, secretary to the Democratic majority in the Senate; State Sen. John Grason Turnbull, Maryland campaign chairman, and Comptroller J. Millard Tawes.

Mahoney aides said the luncheon produced more than $3,000 on the spot, with more to come later.

A guest at the luncheon, from which newsmen were excluded, reported later Johnson also accepted an invitation to deliver the main address Oct. 29 at a $100-a-plate dinner in Baltimore. Proceeds of the dinner will go into the Maryland general campaign kitty for all candidates.

After the money-raising appeal, Mahoney departed for a party dinner at Aberdeen, Md., where he accused the Republican Administration of being "wasteful and extravagant" with public funds.

In less than four years, he said in the text of a prepared speech, the Republicans have spent more money on farm programs than the Democrats spent for such purposes in the preceding 20 years. But the Republicans have accomplished less for the farmer, he said.

Accused Slayer Held For Grand Jury

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 4 (AP)—Richard Francis Curley, charged with slaying Miss Joan Faye Landau in a Woodland Beach cottage Sept. 11, was ordered held today for grand jury action on a charge of murder.

Magistrate Robert E. Dammeyer denied bond for the 33-year-old former insurance agent on the recommendation of State's Atty. C. Osburn Duvall. Duvall said he thought the charge was "too serious" to permit Curley to be free before the grand jury has acted.

Patrolman Lawrence Moreland offered the principal testimony at today's hearing. He testified that he stopped Curley for running a stop sign and that when he questioned him about blood on his hands, Curley said he had "just shot someone."

Curley did not enter a plea at the hearing.

Private School Planned

EASTON, Md., Oct. 4 (AP) — A group which opposes school integration is planning to set up a private school in Talbot County.

The Talbot White Citizens Council, which has changed its name to Talbot Citizens Assn., said it has written the State Board of Education for information on requirements for setting up a private school.

Negro Charged In Cop Slaying

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4 (AP)—Alvin Herbert Braxton, 17-year-old Negro, was formally charged today with the fatal shooting of rookie Patrolman John R. Phelan.

Braxton is in City Hospitals with gunshot wounds inflicted at the time of his capture.

Phelan, 21, was shot to death with his own gun while taking a man arrested for a liquor store robbery to the hospital.

The wounded man was put in an ambulance. Phelan and another policeman, Theodore Weintraub, 28, rode in the back with the wounded man.

On the way, Weintraub related later, the man grabbed Phelan's gun and started shooting. Phelan was shot in the chest and died a short time later. Weintraub was hit in the knee and thigh and is recovering.

The liquor store holdup occurred last Saturday night. The store owner ignored the bandit's warning and yelled for assistance. A policeman hurried up and chased one of the robbers into an alley.

The bandit and the policeman struggled, and the policeman shot the man in the leg.

Police also charged three other youths — one of them Braxton's brother—with being involved in a series of liquor store and restaurant holdups.

Land Will Be Bought

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—Maryland and federal officials agreed today to acquire immediately virtually all the land needed to extend the George Washington Memorial Parkway between the District of Columbia line and Great Falls, Md.

The decision at a closed meeting is expected to permit construction of the Maryland parkway along the Potomac River during the year ending next June 30.

New Construction Tax Is Proposed

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Oct. 4 (AP)—Delegate H. G. Machen proposes a tax on new construction to finance a stepped-up capital improvement program for Prince Georges County.

He said last night he is considering introducing a bill in the next General Assembly to provide funds for future school construction, additions to county buildings and road improvements.

The tax he described would be paid by owners of new homes or apartment buildings completed after June 1. It would be payable without interest for six months from the date the construction is placed on assessment books. The tax rate would be determined by an analysis of the amount of new construction.

He said the county will have to spend more than 10 million dollars a year for the next five years for school construction alone.

SRC To Ask Bids For Test Borings For Local Thruway

Another contract will be let for the Cumberland Thruway as the State Roads Commission takes its second step toward the start of construction.

The SRC will open bids on Tuesday, October 16, in its Baltimore office for test borings and subsurface exploration of the location of the Thruway.

The contract will call for the testing of the earth from the Baltimore Pike to Johnson Street.

The general route of the Thruway will be from Baltimore Pike paralleling Central Avenue to Emily Street, then across Park Street, the B&O Railroad property, Commerce Street, South Centre and Mechanic streets, Western Maryland Railway, south of the station, Wills Creek and over the approach to the Ridgeley bridge to the vicinity of Beall and Smallwood streets.

Green Associates, Inc., the engineering firm from Baltimore that received the initial Thruway contract, that of surveying and designing the project, said its survey work is 90 per cent complete.

A member of the crew here said the centerline of the downtown part of the Thruway has been staked.

Most of the test borings will be in the sites of the piers and abutments, it was reported.

The project two years ago was estimated to cost $10,000,000 with the City of Cumberland putting up $490,000, payable over a seven-year period.

Mahoney Plans Tour Of Area October 15, 16

George P. Mahoney, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senate, will carry his campaign into Allegany and Garrett counties Monday, October 15, and Tuesday, October 16.

Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the Allegany County Democratic Central Committee, said Mahoney will make an intensive shoeleather tour of Garrett County on October 15.

He will devote the second day to Allegany County, where he has always shown great strength, Finan pointed out.

A mass rally is planned for the evening of October 16 in Cumberland, Finan said, with Mahoney as the main attraction.

Finan also reported that the Democratic campaign headquarters for this county was opened at the Algonquin Hotel yesterday.

Simon F. Reilly of this city and James E. Kenny of Westernport, are the county campaign co-chairmen.

It is significant in this general election that Reilly, the county Tydings chairman in the primary, and Kenny, who served in a similar capacity for Mahoney, are uniting their forces for the candidate.

Mahoney succeeded Millard E. Tydings after the primary winner was forced to withdraw because of illness.

Hungary To Honor "Stalinist Victims"

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 4 (AP) —The Central Committee of Hungary's Communist party today ordered public funerals with military honors for persons "innocently executed on charges of Titoism and similar counts" in the Stalin era.

Among them is expected to be former Foreign Secretary Laszlo Rajk, who was put to death in 1949 for allegedly plotting with Yugoslav President Tito.

Rajk's body is likely to be among those of four "Stalinist victims" to be reburied next Saturday in a tomb in Cerepas Cemetery reserved for "great messengers of the workers' movement."

Oct. 6 is the day Hungarians commemorate the 13 generals executed in 1848 when the Austrian Empire and Russia joined to crush Hungary's war of independence.

Scientists say the average, normal person moves from 35 to 60 times during a night's sleep.

Mary, Queen of Scots, was beheaded by order of Queen Elizabeth in 1587.

'Oldest Man' Departs For Native Colombia

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP) —Javier Pereira, the little Indian who may be the world's oldest man, departed yesterday for his native Colombia. As he left, he took a parting kick at news photographers, his pet peeve.

Pereira was brought here two weeks ago to try to determine if he's 167 years old, as some people claim. New York Hospital experts on old age examined him and said there was no exact way to fix his age. But they said he might be over 150.

Conservatives Can Get Write In Votes

A decision by C. Ferdinand Sybert, attorney general of Maryland, has caused Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors to change plans for the November 6 election.

William A. Wilson, board president, said yesterday that Sybert's letter to him noted that space has to be provided for the write-in vote for the Maryland Conservative Party.

Sybert observed that he understood the Conservatives were going to have candidates for president and vice president.

Since they failed to file their candidates' names by the required time, Sybert said, there must be space provided on the voting machines for write-in votes for nine electors of the Conservative Party.

To do this, the election board will provide the first blank on the voting machine. By lifting up a slide, one can write on a roll of paper the nine electors if he so desires.

The remaining spots on the machine will be for the Democratic and Republican candidates, where voting will be by pulling the little levers by their names, and then pulling the main lever to cast the ballot.

Refugee Problem

GENEVA, Oct. 4 (AP) — Political refugees are pouring into Austria from Communist Eastern Europe at the rate of 1,000 a month. Austria told the intergovernmental committee for European migration the influx is creating a serious problem for the Austrian economy. Most refugees came from Yugoslavia.

CRISFIELD, Md., Oct. 4 (AP)—Mayor Allen L. Hardester stepped down to the post of clerk-treasurer and got a $3,000 step up in pay.

Elected by City Council to be mayor was Charles R. Dryden, who had been council president.

The switch was touched off by the resignation of George Massey, who said business obligations made it necessary for him to quit as clerk-treasurer.

The mayor gets $1,000 a year. The clerk-treasurer's post pays $4,940.

The changes were made last night by the council It is to elect a new member to fill the vacancy created by Dryden's move to mayor.

Rain Mars Stevenson's Appearance At West Virginia Forest Festival

Borrows Plane From Governor After Address

Says US Must Take New Look At Coal Industry Problem

By WARREN ROGERS

ELKINS, W. Va., Oct. 4 (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson's campaign schedule was washed out by rain today, but he bummed a plane from West Virginia's governor to try to make New York in time for his scheduled appearances tonight.

Stevenson and two aides flew to Pittsburgh in Gov. William C. Marland's four passenger plane and transferred to a commercial airliner (TWA) that delayed its flight scheduled to take the Democratic presidential candidate aboard.

The commercial liner took off for New York within 10 minutes after Stevenson arrived.

During his speech here, Stevenson criticized the Eisenhower administration for what he called the "shunting aside" of lifetime conservationists "in favor of political appointees."

It was the severest politics-type statement in an otherwise nonpartisan speech at the State Forest Festival whose big moment was the crowning of a pretty girl as "Queen Sylvia."

The Democratic presidential nominee got up a head of steam in his whistle-stopping campaign last night with a nationally televised attack on Eisenhower.

He said at Pittsburgh over CBS that Eisenhower had made a "gross misstatement" of the record and was surrounding himself with GOP "cronies."

Stevenson aides confirmed that the campaign strategy might be put something like this:

1. The Democratic party is more popular than the Republican party.

2. Eisenhower is personally more popular than Stevenson.

3. Therefore, the Democrats can win everywhere in the Nov. 6 election except for Stevenson — unless Eisenhower can be equated with the Republican party.

And that's what Stevenson's speeches in New Jersey Tuesday and Pennsylvania yesterday appeared to be aiming at: to convince the voter that Eisenhower as head of the GOP is responsible for what it does.

Stevenson's Elkins speech declared America's forests, wild life havens, parks, streams and public lands "have been invaded and turned over to selfish private purposes.

"But more important even than that, perhaps, is the shunting aside of men who are experienced and trained in a lifetime of conservation work, in favor of political appointees."

He said, without naming names, that an agency which looks to future mineral needs was abandoned and not replaced. He said the soil conservation service "has been weakened and must be revived."

While Stevenson supplied no details, aides said he was talking about the Forestry and Wildlife Service, particularly.

They said Albert M. Day was replaced as director of the service by James. L. Farley, former public relations man for the Crown-Zellerbach paper firm, in August, 1953. They said later testimony before a House committee was that three assistant directors and the chief counsel of the service had their jobs removed from career Civil Service status and made political appointments.

Stevenson also touched on another subject close to West Virginia hearts—coal. He said he wondered if the time wasn't ripe for "a new look" at the problem of coal being replaced by other fuels.

"The atomic age gives us no warrant to neglect either coal or the coal miner," he said. "We need them both."

Stevenson ran into rain here for the first time since his swing started from Washington, D.C., Tuesday.

After New York tonight, Stevenson takes his campaign by auto into Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. He rests briefly at Libertyville, Ill., and then flies next week to stump California and Washington.

Gov. William C. Marland and Sen. Matthew Neely of West Virginia met Stevenson to escort him to the Elkins festival. To Marland went the honor of crowning Miss Ann Lyon Alexander of Parkersburg as "Queen Sylvia" of the 20th Mountain State Forest Festival.

Stevenson got West Virginia's eight electoral votes in 1952. It was one of nine states which he carried then.

In New York, Stevenson is touching just about every base in his bid for the Empire State's 45 electoral votes. Besides tonight's street rallies on the East Side and in Harlem—where feelings run high on civil rights and school segregation issues—he is going to take in tomorrow's World Series baseball game and address a street rally in Brooklyn.

Stevenson Visits Elkins

"Well look at that!" This was the comment of Adlai Stevenson as he looked sympathetically at Loraine Hartman, age 6, as she showed where a tooth is missing as the result of an accident. The candidate met the little lady at Elkins, W. Va., yesterday, where he attended the West Virginia Forest Festival. Loraine presented Adlai with a gavel during the ceremonies. Holding her hand is her sister, Delaine. (AP Photofax).

Teen-Town Dance Heads Named By Advisory Board

FROSTBURG — Sponsors for October and November were appointed at a meeting of the Teen-Town Adult Advisory Board Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse F. Jacobs were appointed sponsors tor the eight dances being held during October, and Mr. and Mrs. George Kennedy were designated as the November sponsors.

Sponsors are responsible for securing chaperones to manage the snack bar, collect admissions and see that all rules of the club are enforced at the weekly dances. A dance has been planned for October 19 and a committee has been appointed to decorate the hall for this affair. An orchestra will furnish the music.

To appropriately mark Fire Prevention Week, a fire drill has been planned for Saturday, October 13. Woodrow Layman, Alvin Rankin and Kenneth Close, officers of the Frostburg Fire Department, will act as observers.

The advisory board has decided to hold unannounced fire drills at Teen-Town every four or six weeks, so that the youngsters will be alert and able to clear the hall quickly and safely should a fire occur.

A number of parents, who have children attending Teen-Town regularly, have not yet had an opportunity to serve as chaperones at one of the weekly dances. As this is the only way adults can be present at the affairs, it has been suggested that anyone wishing to be appointed a chaperone may do so by contacting a member of the board.

Attendance at the Friday and Saturday night dances at Teen-Town has been between 300 and 400 each night.

Lonaconing Firemen Will Sponsor Mammoth Homecoming During 1957

Celebration Is Held Each Tenth Year

Town Started Around 1835

LONACONING — A Homecoming will be held in 1957 in Lonaconing. John Eichhorn, president of Good Will Volunteer Fire Company No. 1, Lonaconing, announced today that the Homecoming, which is held every ten years by the Lonaconing firemen, will be planned for a week during next summer when ideal weather is anticipated for the events.

At the next firemen's meeting on Wednesday, October 17, the dates will be decided. The Homecoming will be organized with parades, dinners, a Central High school Day possibly, and many highlights for the program.

It was in 1835, which is 122 years ago, that the Georges Creek Coal and Iron Company, financed by British capital made the first settlement to develop Maryland's rich George's Creek basin.

A group came from New York, purchased land from the pioneers, who for the most part were Revolutionary War veterans who had settled on the fifty acre plots awarded them for their services. Plans were made for mining coal, working the ore deposits and constructing the Iron Furnace which is one of Lonaconing's landmarks.

Lonaconing was then an isolated place —a narrow valley located eight miles south of Frostburg, the site almost enveloped by Great Savage and Dans Mountain which rose sharply above it to a height of 3,000 feet, the projected settlement named "Lonaconing" or "The Lonaconing Residency".

When a Homecoming is held in Lonaconing, many former residents visit their hometown for the celebration.

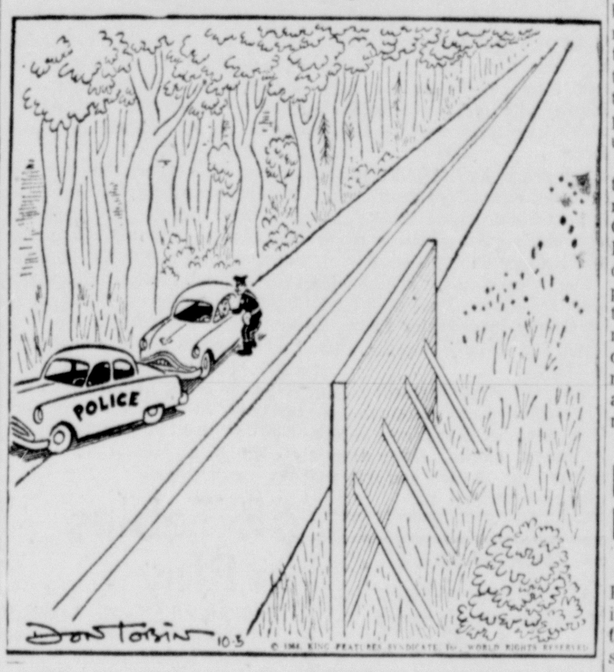
THE LITTLE WOMAN

"You girls have had all night to talk! For Pete's sake, say good night and let's get home!"



"Why are you fussing? I wasn't driving any faster than you were!"

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (INS) — NBC's Bill Chaplin had an unnerving brush with the income tax people the other day. Bill, one of the best reporters I ever met, told about it on Morgan Beatty's show.

In the first place, the agent assigned to pull him through the meat-grinder was named Hamburger. Mr. Hamburger showed Bill to the elevator upon shearing an additional $57 off him (which should buy a new muffler for Tito's rented dog.) Bill thanked him for the courteous gesture but Mr. Hamburger shook his head.

Regulations, Mr. Hamburger said. The rules say that taxpayers must be ushered out of the place by accredited employes of the government, to be sure they do not steal any government property — like an inkwell.

"But nobody accompanied me when I came in to see you," Bill said.

"People never are escorted in," Mr. Hamburger said. "It's only when they go out. You see, they're usually mad."

Tom Dewey reminds me of prewar Japanese baseball pitchers who, when knocked out of the box for ineffectual pitching, would spend the remainder of the game throwing hard and furiously to an auxilliary catcher along the sidelines.

This showed what stuff they might have displayed if they had been left in the game. Occidental fans in the stands were inclined to consider this a matter of too late.

At San Francisco and in his rare but explosive campaign appearances, Dewey has shown a vigor and two-fistedness which, in another day and time, could well have put him in the White House.

A World Series emphasizes the value of sports and its effect on those who play games well. In this annual contest between the two best ball clubs we have the absolute last word in honest endeavor, all-out physical and mental effort, sportsmanship, guts, etc.

Yet some of these men might have become bums or worse if it were not for the game of baseball and the opportunity they were given first to play it and later to master it with the help of good counsel, equipment, facilities and the like. Today they are a responsible and honored segment of society.

There are thousands of embryo big leaguers going to pot in New York City and elsewhere in the country while the World Series is being played, principally because people don't contribute enough money to make a go of such wonderful organizations as, let us say, New York Police Athletic League, Inc., of 400 Broome Street, Thomas J. Deegan Jr., general-chairman.

PAL must care this year for 300,000 kids. The cost will run $1,462,956. The dough is coming in too slow for adequate operation of its 38 youth centers, 53 playstreets and grounds, summer camp, etc. PAL is sponsored by the New York Police Department and is not supported by public tax money. It was organized to develop friendly relationships between the youngster and the cop on the beat. It gives a kid a chance, who otherwise would have none, and never asks him his color, religion, nationality, or the way he plans to vote in 1970. Contributions to it, from a dime up, are tax free. A buck spent now in this direction might be instrumental in putting a star on the field when the Yanks and Dodgers play in the 1970 series. Who can challenge that or any part thereof?

All present volunteered their services to assist at the headquarters. Westernport Sets Water Rates For Bloomington WESTERNPORT—The Mayor and Council of Westernport has approved an agreement prepared by Horace P. Whitworth, town attorney, for the sale of raw water to the Bloomington Water Company at a cost of $6.50 per year for residences and $10 annually for business places.

A water census will be taken yearly and additional users will be reported to the town clerk, George DeWitt, within 30 days.

Fred Imhoff, Carmel Kight and Jack Fazenbaker, representatives of Philos Lodge 91, IOOF, asked for a water bill adjustment. Mayor Okey E. Michael informed them that pipe carrying water from Hammond Street toward the lodge home developed a leak.

The group told council the matter would be investigated.

Presented was a motion giving Water Commissioner Alvyn Pence and DeWitt authority to clarify rates for hotels, boarding houses, schools and commercial and public places. A tie vote deadlocked the issue, however.

Mayor Michael announced the town plans to install water meters in commercial places next summer.

Daniel Taylor, who resigned some time ago as an employe of the Street Department for other work, requested that he be reinstated. No action was taken.

The mayor referred complaints to the heads of the various departments, and Police Commissioner Leo Herbert warned that Halloween will be observed one night only.

The temporary 60-day trial parking period on Maryland Avenue, between Main Street and the Potomac Candy Company, was declared permanent as was the north to south flow of traffic on Vine Street from Rock to Johnson Streets.

Overseas Yule Parcels Should Be Mailed Soon

The period October 15 to November 15 has again been designated for the acceptance of Christmas parcels for members of the Armed Forces overseas.

Thomas F. Conlon Sr., local postmaster, said yesterday the importance of mailing Christmas parcels during the designated period cannot be emphasized too strongly—the earlier the better.

No assurance can be given that surface parcels mailed after November 15, or air parcel post mailed after December 1, will be delivered in time for Christmas.

Parcels destined for delivery in Japan, Korea, and the islands in the Pacific should be mailed as early as possible, preferably not later than November 1, in view of the distances involved, Conlon pointed out.

Parcels for Navy and Marine Corps personnel serving in the most remote areas should be mailed not later than October 15.

Conlon said that boxes for overseas transmission must necessarily be of strong construction on account of the great distance these parcels must be transported and the handling and storage they must undergo.

Particular attention should be paid to parcels mailed by department stores and others wrapped in so-called gift style. Such parcels should be enclosed in substantial containers.

Parcels containing foodstuffs are likely to reach overseas destination unfit for use.

Domestic rates of postage are applicable, and postage must be fully prepaid. One other thing that Conlon pointed out is that addresses must be legible and should be prepared in typewriting or ink.

Contractors Meet Here

Local electrical contractors, building contractors and representatives of local banks and lending institutions met recently at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club in the 11th annual Contractor's Meeting sponsored by the Potomac Edison Company. Presiding at this year's meeting was Edward L. Ewaid, commercial manager of the Cumberland District of PE.

Sir Francis Drake upheld his threat to "singe the king of Spain's beard" by seizing some 20 million dollars in Spanish loot.

The grand jury stated that satisfactory efforts are being made to police and control those premises which have alcoholic beverage licenses in the county.

The report also commended State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis.

The report was signed by John J. McMullen as foreman and Mrs. Sara R. Rank and Joseph P. Barry, clerks. Judge Harris excused the 18 men and five women about 4:20 p. m.

State Jaycee President Visits Here

George E. Snyder of Hagerstown, president of the Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce, was guest of honor at the monthly meeting of the Cumberland Jaycees Wednesday night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Snyder spoke on some of the activities of the Jaycees on a state and national level, and of the inter-relation local, state and national Jaycees.

Lawrence Brady, social chairman, reminded the Jaycees that a masquerade dance will be staged Saturday, October 27, at the Ali Ghan Shrine City Club.

William M. Wilson, chairman of the civic improvement committee, reported that a group of Jaycees has beautified the triangular strip where Bedford and Frederick streets meet at the city limits. A welcome sign also has been installed there.

Thomas A. Mont Jr., a native of Cumberland and the new head football coach at the University of Maryland, has been nominated by the Cumberland Jaycees as one of the 10 outstanding young men in America.

Again this year the Jaycees will sponsor a Voice of Democracy speech contest. Entrants will be solicited from all public and parochial high schools in Allegany County. Edward W. Steinmann will serve as chairman of the contest committee.

The Jaycees also are beginning their annual membership campaign for young men between the ages of 21 and 35. The co-chairmen are Miles G. Thompson Jr. and E. F. Mullan Jr.

68 Tables In Play

The Sacred Heart Auxiliary made over $400, according to the incomplete report, at its annual card party, Wednesday evening in SS. Peter and Paul parish hall. Proceeds will be used for improvement of the clinical control room. Sixty-eight tables were in play. Autumn flowers, with fire thorn, mums and dahlias predominating, decorated the hall. A horn of plenty with fruit centered the cake booth.

Besides a prize awarded at each table others were won by Mrs. Pamela McLean, Mrs. Michael Fesenmeier, Mrs. Edward Crippen, Mrs. Helen Jacobs, Miss Catherine Bexler, Mrs. William E. Walsh, Mrs. Edward Keech and Mrs. James Wilkins.

Mrs. Joseph Naughton was general chairman with Mrs. Norbert O'Donnell, Mrs. Anthony Saeli, Tickets; Mrs. George Carney, Mrs. Walter Beyer, Cake; Mrs. Joseph Madden, Refreshments; Mrs. Mortimer Nehring, Mrs. Leo Ley, Decorations; and Mrs. Norman Geatz Jr., Beverages.

The auxiliary will hold an all-day sewing meeting Tuesday. Dessert will be served at 1:45 with Mrs. Robert Bruce and Mrs. Saeli hostesses.

The first women's rights convention was held in Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1848.

What's Tito Up To With The Russians?

The sudden flight of President Tito of Yugoslavia to Moscow in the company of Nikita Khrushchev has given the West a fresh mystery to puzzle over and its implications are not particularly pleasant ones.

When leaders of Communist states get together in secret conferences and travel together on missions whose nature is not disclosed, it is usually bad news for the West. But as the song has it in "Porgy and Bess," George Gershwin's opera, "It ain't necessarily so."

There have been some signs of bad feelings between Tito and the masters of the Kremlin in recent weeks. The Yugoslavs are known to resent the failure of Moscow to live up fully to the declaration of amity between the two nations which was signed last June.

In that document Stalin's heirs acknowledged the soundness of Tito's view that there can be more than one road to socialism. Since then, in their attitude both toward their satellites and toward Yugoslavia, the Russian Communists have shown signs of backing away from this relatively liberal position.

It must also be remembered that Tito did not go to Moscow as a suppliant. Khrushchev came to him. If Tito has now gone to Russia there is no sign that he has gone as anything but an equal and the head of a proudly independent state. Perhaps this portends a new and closer liaison between the two Communist powers in Europe. But it is just as possible that Tito is reasserting his own independence and his displeasure with the way the Moscow Declaration has been carried out.

This is still a puzzle, all right. But until there are real signs of a change in attitude there is no reason to lie awake worrying about it.

The Fundamental Issue

The Beaumont, Texas, Enterprise has stated the issues of this campaign better than I have seen it elsewhere:

"Just what is the one big issue of this year's presidential and congressional campaigns? It is an 'issue' neither Republican nor Democratic politicians care to discuss. The one big 'issue' of the 1956 struggle between the Democratic and Republican parties is this: The Republicans want to stay in power, the Democrats want to get back into power."

No matter what Adlai Stevenson, Estes Kefauver or Harry Truman say for the Democrats, what it all comes down to is that they want to get back into the White House; and no matter what Dwight D. Eisenhower or Richard Nixon say about great issues, what they want is to stay in the White House and all that pertains thereto.

But there is more to the election than a president and a vice president. The whole of the House of Representatives has to be elected and about one-third of the Senate. In most states, many local officials have to be elected.

The Republicans believe that Ike Eisenhower will be elected. They also recognize that he is in a little trouble; that he will not have anything like the vote that he gained in 1952. The Democrats, on the other hand, are surprised that Stevenson is running so much better than he did in 1952. He is less the quipster and more the politician. The Democrats who six months ago thought that they had no chance at all, now believe that the presidential election, in terms of electoral votes, will be tight and that if California or New York go Democratic, Stevenson might make it. The Democrats believe that they have made unexpected strides in Pennsylvania and Michigan and they think that they can make progress in Massachusetts.

When it comes to the Congress, the Democrats are almost certain that they will hold the seats they have and may even do better. The Republicans are worried about the Congress.

Their trouble is that during the whole of the Eisenhower administration, too little attention has been paid to state organizations and even to lower levels of politics. What count are patronage and honors. President Eisenhower, accustomed to the West Point career conceptions of the Army, has refused consistently to fire Democrats and to give their jobs to Republicans. He had no desire to institute the spoils system after 20 years of Roosevelt and Truman. That may be a wonderful ideal, but it did not build organization. The competition between the Republican clubs and the Eisenhower clubs has done no good, because whereas the Republicans have for 20 years kept the party alive and going, the Eisenhower clubs included many ex-Democrats and opportunists who were New Dealers when the New Deal was popular and who later hooked on to the Eisenhower bandwagon.

Eisenhower has attracted new elements to the Republican party, but not enough of them. The Republican congressional candidates are therefore having a very tough time. Also the inexperienced geniuses from Madison Avenue who are spending much of the campaign money do not seem to realize that the best way to spend money in a political campaign is to have the local candidates do the spending. This is a very old experience.

The Democrats, on the other hand, have not only retained the strength of their local organizations but they have built powerful bridges with other organizations, the Liberal party in New York, the AFL-CIO, the ADA, the Farmers' Union, and there are others. It is true that some of these organizations, such as the ADA, may be as unpopular with Democrats as with Republicans, but they have an effective propaganda operation that can make votes in particular areas. To a Republican, the ADA is reprehensible.

The Republicans had similar allied groups among the various anti-Communist and right wing organizations, many of whom centered about the leadership of Senator Joe McCarthy. The strength of much of this group has been dissipated, although not entirely. The result is that this element which has stood by the Republican party since 1932 is now standing away from it as unwanted and no other groups have taken their place. While this may not interfere with the election of Eisenhower and Nixon, it is going to be tough on candidates for the Senate and the House of Representatives—very tough.

Stevenson, Kefauver Talks Hurt U. S. Prestige

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The campaign addresses — particularly the reckless speeches of Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver—have injured American prestige abroad and have seriously damaged the diplomacy of the free world.

To denounce conscription, as Stevenson has done, is to undermine the strength of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization

To blame the Suez crisis on the withdrawal by Secretary Dulles of American aid to Egypt for the Aswan Dam—as Mr. Kefauver charges—is to encourage Nasser and make more difficult the negotiation of a peaceful settlement.

Old Principle Abandoned

To call upon the United States—as Mr. Stevenson has done—for an abandonment of H-bomb tests even if Russia doesn't stop her tests and then, when this is criticized, to demand this week that American take the "leadership" in banning such tests because, in the belief of the Democratic nominee, Russia now is ready to renounce them, is to complicate the problem of negotiating a disarmament agreement. For there is no way for Mr. Stevenson to know what Russia will or will not agree to and particularly what safeguards, if any, can be obtained to make sure that any agreements made with Moscow will be kept. But, in the midst of the delicate process of seeking understanding with Soviet Russia, is all this a proper topic to be debated in a political campaign?

Apparently the old principle that "politics should end at the water's edge" now has been abandoned by the Democratic campaigners. Former President Truman has added to the confusion by his comments. He says he wouldn't have let Soviet Russia get a foothold in the Middle East. How would he have stopped the Kremlin? By war? By the same tactics that failed in Korea and China?

Certainly the Europeans who are observing the American political campaign are wondering whether Harry Truman's belligerency, Adlai Stevenson's idea which could weaken the defense structure, and Estes Kefauver's encouragement of Nasser are going to be approved by the people of the United States at the coming election.

Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany has been having a hard time getting sanction from his Parliament on the draft or conscription law. The term of service there was recently shortened as a compromise. The same issue is up throughout the NATO countries, especially in Britain, where the fight against the draft is being carried on by those who also want to play appeaser to Soviet Russia.

Doesn't Offer Solution

Mr. Stevenson's attack on the draft implies that he would depend entirely on the volunteer system. Yet the relatively low number of draftees being called today is directly attributable to the fact that many young men prefer to volunteer so as to get through their military service at a particular time instead of waiting to be drafted at some period in an uncertain future.

Mr. Stevenson says that he and many others feel that "the draft is a wasteful, inefficient, and often unfair way of maintaining our armed forces, and now it is fast becoming an obsolete way." He adds:

"We may very well find that in the not far distant future we can abolish the draft and at the same time have a stronger defense and at lower cost."

But Mr. Stevenson doesn't tell how manpower is then to be obtained. Modern air forces, modern armies and modern navies cannot be handled by robots. They require hundreds of thousands of men. Does Mr. Stevenson think these can be obtained from volunteers if there is no pressure on young men by the draft law?

When the American people choose a president, they also choose a commander-in-chief of the armed forces of the United States. In this day and age, can Mr. Stevenson be pictured as a man to be trusted as commander-in-chief, especially when he is willing to abolish the draft and rely on the volunteer system, which has failed again and again without the draft law behind it? This now will become a vital question in the campaign.

The morale of military leaders will be dealt a severe blow not only in this country but abroad when there is a full understanding of the meaning of Stevenson's proposals. The experience of the United States has always been pointed to as an example of the importance of conscription. The fact that in this country it is a two-year term of service has been cited in the debates in foreign parliaments as an argument against abolishing conscription or shortening the service by too much.

Helps Moscow

Mr. Stevenson has repeatedly said that America is "losing the cold war," but his speech about the draft has done much to give an advantage to Moscow in the defense setup of the Allies. If Mr. Stevenson should be elected, there could emerge a Europe weakened by America's attitude toward conscription which could tempt the Communist regime to take a chance on a big war, as Hitler did.

Five more weeks of this kind of campaigning—and possibly an interval of "transition" between election and inauguration day, if Setvenson should somehow win the close race — and the American people may well face big risks on the world scene. No wonder the stock market—which usually anticipates long in advance the possible impact of public affairs on investors' confidence—has lately been fluctuating.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Door-to-door landing strategy of GOP will make every welcome mat a beachhead.

It's the old master plan of burlesque comedy. Ring the front door bell and then run around to the back door with a baseball bat.

It is not a national committee's scheme to leave a Republican at every cottage for a 30 day's trial.

The idea is to mouse-trap the property owner before he hires 11 Democratic chauffeurs for a one-car garage. Optimism is an unmatched statistic. The side with the most votes wins the election except in Philadelphia.

Opportunity knocks more than once getting the vote out. When they talked about porch campaigns you never thought it was going to be your veranda, didja?

The house-to-house canvassing in New York will upset Tammany's city directory. The old boosters have quite a few voters registering from vacant lots.

You can be independent and not answer the door.

Eisenhower Welcomes Questions At "Peoples Press Conference"

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The Madison Avenue boys who are masterminding much of Ike's campaign were surprised the other day when they put up to him the idea of answering questions at a so-called "people's press conference" on television.

The idea of the "people's press conference" was hatched by Young and Rubicam. They are bringing a cross-section of people in from various parts of the U. S. A. to meet with the President to ask him questions ranging from war and peace to the high cost of living. But the Y and R experts figured the President would not want to answer too many questions.

Much to their surprise, they found he liked the idea, said he didn't want to put any limit on the type of questions asked.

The members of the "people's press conference" group will be handpicked. They will be friendly to the President. But nothing is barred when they pop their questions.

Not So Silent Stevenson

Adlai Stevenson was touring St. Louis. The crowds had been tumultuous, the best he had had. An enthusiastic crowd is good for the ego and Adlai found the high spirits contagious

Beside him as he drove through packed streets was Sen. Tom Hennings of Missouri, who is running for re-election. On one building, Hennings spied a sign. It read: "The St. Louis Silent Club."

"Adlai," said Hennings, "wouldn't you and I like to join that club!"

Stevenson grinned.

"Maybe last election," he said "I was a rank amateur then. But this time I'm learning."

Another Joe Smith

Joe Smith may be the idol of the Democrats, but not the Democrats on the House Appropriations Committee. They want Joe Smith fired as commander of the Military Air Transport Service, or MATS.

Their Smith is not exactly a plain Joe. He's a lieutenant general, with a yen for equipping plush transport planes for the use of other generals. When the congressmen wanted pictures of these plush interiors, Gen. Joe Smith quickly classified them as "top secret," thus making it impossible for Congress to use them.

"This is my service and Congress isn't going to tell me how to run it," Gen. Joe Smith was quoted as saying.

The Appropriations Committee which votes the money for MATS, and incidentally for Joe Smith's salary, figures he may think differently when they get through with his budget.

Probing The Political $$$

Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee is making both political parties peeved. That's the penalty of being chairman of the Committee to Investigate Campaign Expenditures during an election year.

Though Gore is a Democrat, he slapped a peremptory notice on the chairman of the Pennsylvania Democratic dinner for Adlai Stevenson in Harrisburg that he wanted a list of everyone buying 10 or more tickets to their $50-a-plate shindig. The Democrats grumbled, but immediately brought their dinner list to Washington.

Gore also served notice on the Salute to Eisenhower dinners at which $7,000,000 was raised last winter that he wanted a similar list of the chief guests and contributors. This list was slow in coming, but Gore managed to get it—how, he won't say.

Gore is also looking into various other campaigns, including the Ohio race where Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, the big Cleveland industrialist, heads up the "George Bender-for-Senator" race. As a result of Humphrey's activity, reports are current in Ohio that businessmen who fail to contribute to Bender will have their income taxes probed. Humphrey is in no way responsible, but the rumors are prevalent nonetheless.

Maybe it's for other reasons, but the money is rolling into Bender's campaign coffers.

Gore's probe of Ohio isn't going to make him any more popular with Republicans.

Washington Pipeline

A tip for oyster lovers: The Food and Drug Administration reports that some oyster dealers are adding plain tap water to containers of shucked oysters in order to increase the weight . . . Food and Drug is cracking down thanks to a million-dollar increase in its appropriation granted by Congress last year which adds 50 new inspectors. It now has 300 . . . Fred Seaton is cleaning up his Interior Department. He's streamlining his lands records. For the first time in history Interior is throwing out yellowed and crumbling records on land ownership dating back to 1812. The vast mountain of paper gives the history of land ownership in the 35 states outside the original 13 colonies. It's now being committed to microfilm and IBM cards . . . Army scientists are now planning a giant guided missile that will carry vital supplies to forward troops. This giant rocket, carrying 10 tons of food, medical supplies or ammunition, would be shot through the air; then, instead of exploding, would come quietly to rest alongside frontline troops.

Ike Steps It Up

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

In the Republican high command, there is no more self-satisfied talk about President Eisenhower limiting his campaigning effort to "five to six television addresses." The talk now is that he will have made "12 to 15 major speeches and perhaps more" before election day rolls round.

There is no more talk, either, about the President tending strictly to his national knitting in his White House office, and only descending in a dignified way to the White House television room to make an occasional high level address to the nation. In the greatly expanded campaigning schedule that is now taking shape, "maybe there'll be one more of those high level White House talks," but maybe there will not.

Flat Failure

The franker Republican strategists will tell you that this sort of speech proved a flat failure the first time it was tried. As a political speech, in fact, the President's campaign opener is now thought to have been a "real turkey, just about as bad as Stevenson's speech at Harrisburg." So the President is not only going to make a lot more speeches. He is also going to make them in the usual setting for stump speeches — on the stump.

Presidential Press Secretary James Hagerty has already admitted that there has been some change of campaign plans, but he has not admitted there has been a change of the rather dramatic dimensions above-outlined. Just in terms of speeches, the President will be doing two or three times more than was planned. In terms of old-fashioned bush-whacking for votes, out in the districts where the votes are, he will be doing immeasureably more than the first plans called for.

This drastic intensification of the President's campaigning effort of course became inevitable, once signs began to appear of a set in the electoral tide in favor of the Democrats. No one can say as yet that the set of the tide is in any way decisive. But the White House staff and the leaders of the Republican National Committee both agree that there is a lot of trouble in the farm states, and that the working class votes are tending to go back to the Democrats—which means trouble in the big cities.

Unjust Disappointment

Furthermore, it is very evident that the one real Republican asset is the President himself. There seems to have been some hope—surely a foolish hope even at the outset—that the single-handed effort of Vice President Nixon would mobilize the country for the Republicans. There is even some disappointment—surely unjust disappointment — that the vice president has failed in this mission.

In point of fact the vice president has handled his campaigning assignment so well that the Democratic stategists, who greatly hoped Nixon would help them by putting a foot wrong somewhere, are now biting their nails with frustration and annoyance. But although the vice president, in this instance, might have contributed to losing the election, no vice president can ever win a presidential race. Only presidents or presidential candidates can ever do that.

This being so, in turn, almost the whole burden inevitably has to be carried by the President himself. He is intensely competitive. He hates the idea of losing a single hole at golf, much less this election. The committee that is really running the campaign—Len Hall, Sherman Adams, Thomas E. Dewey, Herbert Brownell and Lucius Clay—have not had to plead with Dwight D. Eisenhower to get him to do more.

Still A Problem

The problem still is, however, whether the President will do enough more. Almost to a man, the Republican strategists are worried about whether their campaign will "build," growing in momentum and arousing constantly increasing excitement and enthusiasm as voting day grows nearer. The one sure-fire way to make the campaign "build" is for the President to take on the stump for a 10-day or two week continuous tour. But no one has dared to ask the President to do this, because of Eisenhower's view that all-out bush-whacking is unsuitable in the presidency, and because of the promise of an easy campaign that everyone made to the President when he was ill.

If the scenes of personal enthusiasm that the President produces when he takes the stump could only be continuous and cumulative, then the drama of Eisenhower's triumphal progress would almost surely bring the Republican campaign to boiling life. But it is hard to insure continuity and a cumulative effect when the campaign planning has to be on the basis, as one depressed Republican put it, "of in-again, out-again, television and home again." And therein lies the big Republican question mark.

Epilepsy Victims Have Wide Choice Of Medicine

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Fifty per cent of all the epileptics can expect relief of symptoms through the use of our modern remedies. An additional 35 per cent are able to obtain some improvement. The remainder should not be discouraged because new drugs are being introduced constantly. These medications are not curative but help to control the seizures.

Best results are obtained when the right medicine is pitted against the right type of epilepsy. There are several varieties and an accurate diagnosis calls for testing the brain waves with an electro-encephalograph.

In addition, this medicine should be given a fair trial and continued so long as it helps. One reason why an epileptic should avoid frequent shifting of drugs is that each change means that a new reservoir must be built up in the system before results can be analyzed. Toxic reactions may be anticipated in at least half the victims but they usually disappear when the drug is discontinued or the dosage adjusted.

Dilantin (diphenylhydantoin sodium) generally is the first choice in grand mal, or convulsion type of epilepsy as it is time-tested and one of the most popular remedies. When the product is first employed the patient may develop indigestion and become somewhat nervous and unsteady. These reactions are temporary and rarely serious. In some instances, the drug must be discontinued because it leads to skin rash or puffiness and sponginess of the gums.

Primidine is a promising newcomer for epilepsy. A recent report says it prevented grand mal seizures in 55 of 97 patients who had not been treated previously. It did the same in 53 of 191 patients who had received other anti-convulsant medications with only partial relief.

Drowsiness is the chief drawback, varying from mild transient sleepiness to severe lethargy This occured in 160 of 486 cases but symptoms became less noticeable and disappeared frequently after the first week of therapy.

Phenobarbital, mephobarbital, and metharbital (barbituric acid deritives) and the bromides also are used in grand mal. For petit mal, trimethadione, paramethadione, and the succinimide derivitives are among the choices. These compounds prevent or reduce the blackout periods that characterize this type of epilepsy. Meprobamate is the latest to be employed.

REACTION TO NOISE

G. R. writes: My two-year-old son always puts his hands over his ears when there is a sharp sound like a dog barking or backfire from a car. Also when I talk to him sharply. Could he have an ear infection?

REPLY

The majority of children who do this have perfect ears but occasionally their hearing is hyperacute because of obstruction of the eustachian tubes. The dog and the car sounds are difficult to control but what about you?

FISHING OR DUTY?

M. T. writes: My wife is seven months pregnant and objects to my going away on a three-day fishing trip during my vacation Is it safe for me to go away?

REPLY

Stay home. You'll never hear the end of it if something goes wrong. Many women are somewhat emotional at this stage of pregnancy and feel more secure when hubby is nearby.

THE BODY'S POLICEMEN

T. H. writes: What made my white blood count go to 16,000 when I had appendicitis?

REPLY

The white blood cells are part of the body's defense against infection, and the blood forming organs are stimulated whenever a disease of this type strikes.

DUCK EGGS

D. F. writes: Are ducks eggs just as healthy as hen's eggs?

REPLY

They are just as healthful but are a bit stronger.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Herb Stein caught a glimpse of Anita Ekberg in a very low-cut gown at a Hollywood prevue, and was informed by a companion, "She comes from one of the Scandinavian countries." "Yes, I see," agreed Herb appreciatively. "Jutland, no doubt."

In Texas, reports Mike Halbouty, the $64,000 Question" is just a kid asking for his weekly allowance.

Jan Murray heard a next-door neighbor fumbling at his door for many minutes, and finally got up to see if he could help. He found the fumbler, obviously high and almost apopleptic with rage. Murray said, "No wonder you can't get in that way, old man. You're trying to insert a cigar into the keyhole!" The neighbor's jaw dropped. "How do you like that?" he demanded. "I must have smoked my key!"

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Dogs chasing a rabbit into an Italian drug store turned the place into a shambles. For the proprietor, suggests the man at the next desk, it must have been a hare-raising time.

These are the days when many a college football coach finds himself wishing his backs and linesmen were in half as good shape as are the co-ed cheer leaders.

Tuna-Cheese Sandwich

1 cup or 1 (7-ounce) can tuna, flaked
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons pickle relish or piccalilli
¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
6 sandwich buns, sliced
6 slices process cheese
2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine

Combine tuna, celery, pickle relish and mayonnaise. Spread ¼ cup tuna mixture on bottom halves of buns and cover with a slice of cheese. Spread top half of each bun with 1 teaspoon butter. Place both halves of the buns, cut and spread sides up, on a cookie sheet. Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) for 5 minutes or toast under low broiler heat for 5 minutes, until bun tops are toasted and cheese is melted. Yield: 6 tuna-cheese sandwiches.

Lamb Choplets At Brunch

Sunday Brunch, that happy combination of breakfast and lunch, is a good time to have friends join family. Served buffet-style with a warmer to keep foods hot, this menu stars Lamb Choplets with creamed potatoes and peas and bow knot rolls made into little animal faces by the use of raisins. Eggs, hard-cooked, and posies serve as the centerpiece.

Lamb Choplets combine the virtues of riblets cut from inexpensive lamb breast with ground lamb, giving a reasonable facsimile of the favorite lamb chop at a most modest price. This is a do-it-yourself creation that calls for lamb riblets—1-inch thick strips of lean streaked with fat, attached to a rib bone. Your meat dealer makes these for you by cutting between the ribs in a breast of lamb. You'll need also some lean ground lamb.

To make the Lamb Choplets: With a sharp knife make a slash along the bone starting just above one end of the bone and extending about two-thirds the length of the riblet. Into this slash, stuff ground lamb, patting it flat so that it resembles a rib chop. Better allow 2 to a person.

To cook the Lamb Choplets: Place choplets on broiling rack located so that surface of chop is about 3 inches from source of heat. Allow about 10 minutes for broiling time on each side. Turn choplets with tongs or cake turner. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, a dash of thyme or garlic salt if you like. Continue broiling. Serve on very hot platter and on hot plates. Or keep hot on food warmer tray.

Here's a before dinner cocktail guaranteed to rejuvenate the laziest appetite. Combine 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed consomme, 2½ cups tomato juice, 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish, 1 teaspoon grated onion. Chill and stir well before serving. The recipe makes 7 servings of 4 ounces each. Good nibbly companions are crisp crackers and cubes of sharp cheese.

You weren't born to stand with your head forward—bad habit has molded your stance. Only the substitution of good habits will correct it.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Erase "Dowager's" Hump

Today many women of forty are moreg lamorous than they were in their twenties. In close relation to their youthful appearance is a good carriage.

Letting the head come forward is a mark of advancing age, although sometimes we see young girls making the same mistake. A woman can literally take years off her appearance if she will iron out that "dowager's bulge."

If you can do only one exercise (regular exercise is the key to youth), this one for "dowager's" hump should be it. You'll find that it will rejuvenate tired shoulders, also.

With your feet apart, stand with hands clasped behind neck. Toss head back, twist torso to the right, pull elbows forward. Then return to starting position. Repeat, but twist to the left. Do this daily from 10 o 15 times.

If you have that hump, work daily to get rid of it. Not only this exercise but good posture will help. Stand or sit up straight. Hold the head high. Slumped positions disrupt normal breathing, circulation, and digestion, and they can lead to a deterioration of physical condition and appearance. Letting the head come forward with shoulders hunched can crowd the lungs. This can deprive one of glowing skin and bright eyes that would otherwies be hers.

YOUR POSTURE

Achieve grace of the highest degree—make yours the posture ideal—improve stance, figure, health and the appearance of your clothes. Read the informative, easy-to-follow booklet "YOUR POSTURE." For a copy, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin.

Scallops Jerez

Scallops are among the most delicious of the gifts we get from the sea, and the secret of their preparation is to cook them quickly to preserve the delicate flavor. Dust lightly with flour, one and a half pounds of scallops that have been washed and dried, then saute them quickly in six tablespoons of butter. They should just be heated through, browning lightly. Remove the scallops from the skillet, then add to the pan two-thirds of a cup of dry Spanish sherry—a fino or amontillado—simmering for two minutes. Pour the sherry over the scallops and sprinkle with a quarter cup of chopped parsley, serving immediately with rice or noodles. A glass of chilled fino or amontillado is an excellent accompaniment.

Spanish Peaches

Peaches are a good, light dessert after a hearty meal, and an excellent way to serve them is to soak the peeled halves in a cup of dry fino or nutty amonhour, and grating orange or lemon rind over them just before bringing them to the table. For a richer dessert, serve these peaches with ice cream or whipped cream.

For Suppers, Serve Eggs Foo Yong

Check your pantry shelf. Be sure it's stocked with canned, boned chicken or turkey, canned condensed cream of mushroom soup and canned bean sprouts. Then you're all set to whip up this popular Chinese egg dish for a late supper, or anytime the crowd gathers. For 4 generous servings, combine 1 can (5-ounce size) boned chicken or turkey (minced), 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of mushroom soup, 8 eggs (slightly beaten), 1 cup drained cooked bean sprouts, ¼ cup finely chopped onion, and 1 tablespoon soy sauce; mix lightly with a fork. Melt a little shortening in a small skillet; pour about ½ cup of the mixture into skillet at a time enough for 1 portion. Cook slowly until golden brown on each side; turn only once during the cooking. Gives 4 servings. Serve with canned chow-mein noodles.

Frozen Meats

More and more grocery store freezer chests are offering consumers commercially frozen meats these days. Presently available, though not in every locality, are pork, beef, lamb, veal and the variety meats. The meats are used not only in the popular pies and complete dinners, but also as breaded patties, minute steaks, ground meat patties with sauce, and the basic cuts, such as stew meat, steaks, chops, and roasts.

The price of commercially frozen meats varies according to locality. Generally, frozen meat is higher pound for pound than fresh meat. However, based on edible meat, the cost is only infinitesimally higher and is more than offset by the convenience. Most of the frozen meats are trimmed of bones, excess fat, and gristle, and yield meat with no waste.

Uncommitted

other 680,722 Democratic votes went to Kefauver, and party spokesmen assume these are safe for their ticket.

Democrats outnumbered Republicans in the spring election by 782,000, with registration totaling 5,487,822. Almost the same margin prevailed in 1952, when Eisenhower defeated Stevenson by 699,000.

Noting California has gained one million new residents since the previous presidential campaign, Gov. Knight cautioned Republicans:

"It will take a lot of work and sweat and zealous devotion to the cause of Ike and Dick to win enough of the new voters to secure a Republican victory in this state."

The November election also will decide one seat in the U.S. Senate, 30 in the House, 80 in the State Assembly and 20 in the State Senate.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif), elected in 1954 to fill out Nixon's Senate term, rates generally as the favorite to hold off his vigorous Democratic opponent, State Sen. Richard Richards of Los Angeles.

Richards, conducting his first statewide campaign, has managed, however, to cut down on Kuchel's lead, as shown by polls, by his street corner style of meeting the voters.

Kuchel is running on his record in support of the Eisenhower administration on foreign policy — he calls himself an independent on domestic issues — and of activity in behalf of state projects.

Richards, concentrating on state issues, speaks of the Republican candidate as "the single most dispensable senator in the Congress." He has assailed Kuchel particularly for voting against Senate condemnation of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) and for supporting private power development.

Party leaders are probably hopeful of picking up one, possibly two more seats in Congress. The present state lineup is 18 Republicans, 11 Democrats and one vacancy.

In Southern California, Republican Jacqueline Cochran Odlum of Indio, well known for her aviation speed records, is fighting it out with Democratic Judge Dalip S. Saund, a native of India, to succeed Republican Rep. John Phillips, who is retiring. The two-county 29th District is barely Democratic in registration.

Lake Ladoga is the largest lake in Europe. It is situated in the northwestern part of Russia.

Forget everything you know about margarine.

If you've ever been disappointed in the taste of margarine—forget it. If you've ever thought of margarine as a substitute—forget it.

Music Workshop Begins

Miss Dorothy Wagner, left, of the American Book Company, was the consultant for a two-day music workshop conducted here and in Frostburg for elementary teachers and music resource teachers. Miss Wagner is pictured at West Side School with two Johnson Heights School teachers, Mrs. Larna Dawson, third grade teacher, and Mrs. Virginia Barnard, fourth grade teacher. The workshop ended yesterday.

Seniors Seek Scholarships

Seniors in the local high schools will take a screening examination October 24 as the first hurdle in the 1957 National Merit Scholarship Corporation competition with some 13,000 seniors from throughout the country.

As a result of the 1956 competition, checks totaling $515,000 have been mailed to 556 merit scholars and to the colleges they are attending.

The nearest to Allegany County was Joseph F. Vilga, 405 Strayer Street, Central City, Pa., a Shade High School graduate in Somerset County who is now majoring in civil engineering at Carnegie Institute of Technology. He was one of 40 Pennsylvania winners.

All eight Maryland scholarship winners came from in and around Baltimore and in the Washington suburban area. Nearest of the eight West Virginia winners was William G. Isner, 103 Buffalo Street, Elkins, a 1956 Elkins High School graduate now majoring in chemistry at West Virginia University.

VFW Post Urged To Support CD; Will Name Group

Members of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, were told Tuesday night they have a moral responsibility to take an active interest in the Allegany County Civil Defense program.

The principal speaker at the session at the post home was Raymond F. Whitehair, chief administrative officer for medical services of Civil Defense. His assistant, Thomas K. Whalley, also spoke.

Commander Guy Smith promised after their remarks that he would appoint a committee to meet with Civil Defense leaders here to formulate plans in which veterans will be able to participate.

Whitehair and Walley both emphasized that VFW members, as combat veterans, have a moral responsibility to protect their community, their homes and their loved ones.

Driver Charged In Mishap Here

Emery F. Rosenburg of Frostburg, who was the operator of a tractor-trailer loaded with 11 tons of empty beer bottles, which turned over on Wineow Street and smashed into a house early Wednesday morning, was charged with reckless driving, according to City Police Officer E. Hite, who investigated.

The accident occurred as the rig was traveling through the Wineow Street subway and attempted to avoid a speeding car traveling in the opposite direction.

Hite said Rosenburg, who was driving for the Charlton Brothers Trucking Company, was headed uptown at the time of the mishap.

One lane of traffic through the subway was blocked for some time. The front section of a home was damaged when the tractor rammed into the building.

Don't confuse water chestnuts with American chestnuts. They are not the same. Canned chestnuts such as those you will find in grocery stores are nut-like corms or bulbs of an aquatic vegetable grown in China and imported to this country. Unlike the American chestnut, these flavorsome nuts remain crisp after cooking. They lend needed crunchiness to many Chinese dishes as well as American style casseroles and salads.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

Do you employ a typist? Is she on the beam as far as speed is concerned? Want to give her a test? According to an efficiency expert a typist should type the words "Dear Sir" in three seconds. She should type a line on regulation business letter paper in 11½ seconds. She should be able to type a name and address on an envelope in 20 seconds.

OVER THERE

Four completed murder trials in 90 minutes. Two were death sentences. That's what happened in the celebrated Old Bailey Court in London recently. One of the murder trials ending in a death sentence lasted only one and one-half minutes!

ASKING

Queries from clients. Q. Are you familiar with a novel titled "My Mamie Rose?" A. Believe the book you have in mind was an auto-biography by Owen Kildare. Is one of the greatest love stories ever told. Was made into a silent film titled "Regeneration." . . . Q. Did you ever live in Beverly Hills, Calif.? A. Yes, sir. For a brief period. We lived in the low rent district. Only paid $400 a month rent. Some people on our block had only one Cadillac.

SIDELIGHTS

Joan Crawford will have 58 changes of costume in her next starring picture titled "The Story of Esther Costello." If 58 different costumes for one film isn't the Hollywood record, what is? . . . Most of the swimsuit models in Paris are English girls. Same is true of the can-can dancers. That's because a Frenchwoman with shapely legs is a rarity.

ASIDES

Added to the list of contented operators of elderly automobiles must be Mrs. C. C. Nelson of Mt. Vernon, Wash., who is regularly driving a 1924 Dodge. She is the original owner. Mrs. Nelson is 76. . . The handiest men around the house are those born under Cancer (June 22-July 23). The first man to don a "his" apron to cooperate in the dishwashing was probably born under Cancer. Or, so say the stargazers.

SPORT OF KINGS

Horse racing is called "the sport of kings." That may be an apt description. However, it was a queen who started thoroughbred racing. That was Queen Anne of England. She also founded the Newmarket racecourse. Coming upon Newmarket while she was out riding, Queen Anne is said to have remarked that it was "a fine place to stretch a yearling." So she ordered a racecourse built there.

DUMPLINGS

Apple dumplings of good, bad and indifferent quality are available in most bakery shops. But in restaurants they are forgotten dumplings. Are rarely seen on a menu card. This is a great disappointment to me. I am an apple dumpling fan from far back. At times I even go for apple dumpling a la mode.

SUCCESS

My bitter campaign No. 8765D launched 10 years ago has finally been crowned with success. This was for a typewriter ribbon that was easy to change and which the changer could emerge without his hands smeared with ink. There has been originally a typewriter ribbon that can be changed in 10 seconds without the changer coming in contact with any ink. I have been changing typewriter ribbons ever since I was a student at good, old Commercial High School in the beautiful Borough of Brooklyn. I have never changed one in less than 10 minutes. After that it took me 10 minutes to wash my hands.

ART

No doubt you are familiar with Gainsborough's classic titled "The Blue Boy." How about the painting titled "The White Girl?" or the highly interesting portrait titled "His Reverence?" Both of these are by Whistler. The latter is the better work of art. It is the artist's celebrated portrait of Richard Canfield, the gambler. The original is at the Cincinnati Museum of Art. Copies are rarely published. Canfield was an ardent collector of Whistler's works, for which he paid extremely high prices. So when Canfield asked Whistler to do his portrait he felt he couldn't refuse.

Eves Points Out Unique Trait Of Mayors In Area

Mayor Roy W. Eves has sent a letter of congratulation to Edward Duckworth of Luke, who was nominated for mayor of that community in a primary election last week. Duckworth was unopposed for the office.

In his letter, Mayor Eves pointed out that his training apparently equipped him for the "high tension" job of mayor. The mayoral nominee is electrical foreman of the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Mayor Eves explained that he had been electrical supervisor of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company's Glenwood Shops in Pittsburgh and that one of his electricians at that time was Alvin Frezee, who later became mayor of Rowlesburg, W. Va.

Another area man who worked for Eves as an electrician at the local B&O shops and was "promoted" to mayor is Charles H. Fryer, who holds that position in neighboring Ridgeley.

Two Area Men Enlist For Navy Schools

Two area men were accepted for enlistment in the US Navy Tuesday, according to Chief Louis W. Knott, petty officer in charge of the local recruiting station.

Charles David Norris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Norris, 466 Goethe Street, enlisted for four years and was guaranteed a school for special training in a trade of his choice.

Paul Lester Martz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth T. Martz, RFD 1, Hyndman, Pa., is a minority enlistment and will serve until his 21st birthday. He enlisted for an electronic trade school training.

Both men have been sent to Bainbridge for nine weeks basic training.

Assistant Named By Insurance Firm

Robert O. Collins, Cumberland district manager of the Peoples Life Insurance Company, has announced the promotion of R. L. Wiles from agent to the position of assistant manager effective immediately.

Wiles started with the company in February 1953 as an agent and his promotion follows his successful record in the Oakland area.

Collins also announced the appointment of Harold (Mike) Robinson, formerly of the Home Beneficial Insurance Company, as a special agent for the Peoples Company.

Chipped Beef Any Meal

Modern fashion experts now can take a dress or suit and complement it with different accessories to make it appear as several individual creations.

Modern culinary artists now use this same fashion pattern in food preparation. Chipped beef is used in two different recipes, each complemented in a unique style and . . . presto. Here's one dish ready for breakfast and the other ready for lunch or a Sunday night supper.

Creamed Chipped Beef: For the morning treat, brown 1 4-ounce package of chipped beef lightly in 2 tablespoons of lard. Add ¼ cup enriched flour and mix well. Add 2 cups cold milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Add 3 chopped hard-cooked eggs and cook until heated through. Serve on toasted English muffins. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Chipped Beef on Curried Rice: Shred ½ pound chipped beef. Melt ¼ cup butter or margarine and add beef and 3 tablespoons chopped onion, stirring and cooking until lightly browned. Add 6 tablespoons of enriched flour, mix well and add 3 cups of milk gradually, stirring constantly until thickened. Serve in a ring of curried rice. Yield: 6 servings.

Here's a trick worth remembering: When you need a dunking sauce for cold shrimp or lobster, why not add a generous dash of curry powder to mayonnaise and stir to blend well. The curry lends pungency to the creamy dressing and the deep yellow color gives it an appetite stimulating quality. Yet it takes only seconds.

PRIMER for PARENTS

AFRAID OF THE DARK? . . . If your child develops a fear of the dark, try to reassure him gently; leave a dim light in his room.

Bouillon And Onions Mix

This will be one of the stars at your table if you like onions. Cook 1 cup thinly sliced onion in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Stir to separate the onion rings. To the onion, add 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed bouillon and 1 soup can water. Simmer gently for 30 minutes. Pour into hot bowls. Garnish each serving with grated Parmesan cheese. Makes 3 to 4 servings. Ham souffle and fresh green buttered spinach, cooked with a dash of nutmeg, might be your choice to complete the meal.

Veal Chops With Lemon

Lemon flavored veal chops — doesn't that sound like a refreshing main dish? It is—and an easily prepared one, too. After dredging in flour and browning in fat, the chops are topped with lemon slices and allowed to simmer gently until done. That's all there is to it!

Braised Veal Chops

4 loin or rib veal chops, ½ to ¾ inch thick
2 tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon thyme
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lard
1 small lemon
1 bay leaf
½ cup water
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Coat chops with flour which has been mixed with thyme, salt, and pepper. Brown chops in hot fat; top each with a slice of lemon. Add bay leaf, water, and Worcestershire sauce; cover, and simmer 45 to 60 minutes, or until tender. 4 servings.

Pork In Sandwiches

No matter where you go for a picnic—to the beach, the park, a roadside table, or aboard a boat—you'll need lots of big, meaty sandwiches. Picnickers want lots of hearty food to satisfy their ravenous appetities, and sandwiches made with meat help satisfy such appetites. Meat sandwiches provide minerals and vitamins necessary for maintaining good haelth, too.

One sandwich filling which is nutritious as well as good tasting is roast pork. Slice thin pieces of the cooked roast and place them between slices of white or whole wheat bread. Spread the meat with pickle relish, chili sauce, or mayonnaise, if you prefer. To assure crisp lettuce for the sandwich, wrap a few leaves separately and add them at serving time.

Jambalaya

A variation of this Caribbean casserole that will serve six is made by browning in a skillet one pound of diced pork in two tablespoons of olive oil, then adding a pound of diced ham and frying for two more minutes. Remove the meat. Bring to a boil in the skillet four cups of water and half cup of Spanish sherry—either a nutty amontillado or a sweet oloroso—along with a teaspoon of dry mustard and a half-teaspoon of thyme, savory and celery salt, and freshly grated pepper. Place the meat in a casserole, cover with one and a half cups of quick-cooking rice, and pour over the liquid from the skillet. Bake, covered, for forty minutes at 325° F., stirring once after it has cooked for twenty minutes.

It is known that American children of French, German and British immigrants tend to grow slightly taller than their parents.

Gravy For The Epicure

Pan gravy is perhaps the best and simplest meat sauce ever devised, and to bring out all its flavors, you can stir in two tablespoons of dry Spanish sherry, a fino or an amontillado, allowing the wine to simmer in the pan juices during the time it takes to stir the gravy a dozen times. These dry sherries are often used to "finish" more complex sauces, and the wines do wonders for simple ones.

Baked Beans Go Royal

Fit for the king of your castle are these pork and beans. Partly fry 4 slices of bacon; pour off drippings. Combine 2 cans (3½ cups) of pork and beans with tomato sauce and a 9-ounce can drained pineapple tidbits with a generouse shake of ground ginger in a 1½-quart casserole. Arrange bacon on top. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) about 20 minutes.

Company-Minded Chicken

Hope you're having guests when you try this choice recipe for Breasts of Chicken in Piquant Sauce: Thaw 1 package (1-pound size) of frozen chicken breasts as directed on the package. Beat together 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, and a dash of black pepper. Dip chicken in the egg mixture; then roll in ⅔ cup of fine dry bread crumbs. Brown the chicken in ¼ cup butter or margarine until beautifully golden. Add 1 can (12-ounce size or 1½ cups) V-8 Juice; cover and cook over low heat about 45 minutes, or until chicken is tender; stir occasionally. Serve on a pretty platter, garnished with bouquets of parsley or watercress, to 3 or 4 people.

½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon garlic salt
⅔ cup water
4 tomatoes
1 green pepper
1 onion

Combine ground beef, soft bread crumbs, salt, pepper, garlic salt an dwater. Cut each tomato into 12 thin wedges. Place 6 wedges around the edge of each sandwich. Pile meat into center of tomato wedges. Cut green pepper into 16 thin strips. Place a strip of green pepper on each lengthwise side of each sandwich. Cut onion into thin slices. Put 2 onion rings on top of each sandwich. Place sandwiches on shallow baking pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for twenty-five minutes. Yield: 8 hamburger party sandwiches.

Spanish Sherry Adds Flavor

The next time you are making cakes or cookies, particularly those that contain fruit, chocolate, molasses or brown sugar, add two tablespoons of sweet olorso sherry—either a cream or brown sherry—to the batter to bring out all the flavors.

Stewed Chicken And Dumplings

2 cans (14 ounces each) chicken fricassee
1 can (6 ounces) boned chicken, cut-up
1 can (1 pound) peas
⅔ cup milk
2 cups prepared biscuit mix

Turn chicken fricassee, boned chicken and peas with liquid into large skillet or saucepan with tight fitting lid. (Saucepan should be approximately 10 inches in diameter for cooking dumplings.) Heat, stirring occasionally. Add milk to biscuit mix; stir with a fork only until blended. Drop by spoonfuls on top of pieces of chicken (there should be 8 dumplings.) Cook uncovered 10 minutes; cover and cook over low heat 10 min. longer.

In our Primer of Better Breakfasts, P stands for Prunes—the frosted-purple Fresh Italian Prunes coming in from Idaho where they seem to grow larger, sweeter, and more delicious. They're pretty as a picture, and the best of eating. Try them out of hand for pleasant munching, out of dish for delightful breakfasting, out of oven—piping hot in an easy-to-make quick bread such as this Dutch Fresh Prune Cake.

The season is short, so enjoy them now in ways such as these, along with salads and desserts, but do extend their season by canning or freezing some of these free stone "purple plums."

But here's the way to start your day—with Better Breakfasting!

Dutch Fresh Prune Cake

3 cups biscuit mix
¼ teaspoon mace
1 egg, beaten
½ cup granulated sugar
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted butter
8 to 12 or more fresh Italian prunes, pitted and quartered

Topping

¼ cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 to 3 tablespoons butter

Prepare topping by mixing together the dry ingredients and working in butter until crumbly by using a broad-tined fork.

Batter

Beat egg until thick and lemon-colored, gradually beating in the sugar. Add milk and melted butter. Stir in biscuit mix and mace. When mixed (do not beat), put in 8x8x2-inch buttered baking dish. On top of batter in dish, arrange prune quarters in 4 rows or in desired design. The amount of prunes used will depend upon design.

Sprinkle with topping. Bake in 400-degree F. (moderately hot) oven for about 30 minutes. Serve hot, cut in squares, with plenty of butter. Makes 9 or more hearty servings. Serve with orange or pineapple juice, broiled link sausage, favorite beverage.

NOTE: This is also good as dessert, served with a hot Lemon Sauce, or with cream—plain or whipped. Always serve hot.

Cheese-Olive-Bacon Roll-Up Sandwich

1 (1-pound) loaf unsliced enriched bread
1 cup grated process American cheese
¼ cup chopped stuffed olives
⅓ cup crumbled, crisp bacon
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
(1 (#1) can condensed cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup milk

Trim crusts from loaf and cut into six horizontal slices. Combine cheese, olives, bacon, Worcestershire sauce and ⅓ cup mushroom soup. Spread three tablespoons of the cheese mixture on each slice of bread. Roll up the spread bread, jelly roll fashion. Place rolls onto a greased baking sheet and toast in a hot oven (400°F.) for 10 to 15 minutes, or until golden brown. Combine remaining mushroom soup and milk in a small saucepan. Heat and serve mushroom sauce over each roll. Yield: 6 cheese-olive-bacon roll-ups.

When a sponge cake recipe calls for egg yolks that are beaten thick and lemon colored, the directions mean just that. It is properly beaten egg yolks which in this type cake make the baked product high, light, and tender. If you are in doubt about what "thick and lemon colored" means however, beat the yolks until they achieve a mayonnaise consistency. At this point they should be pale yellow in color, too.

17 Flood Control Easements Filed

Seventeen easement deeds were filed in Allegany County Circuit Court Wednesday in connection with the flood control work along Wills Creek.

Filed by Attorney Leslie J. Clark, who is handling the matter for City Attorney Thomas B. Finan, the deeds granted easement which provides for the paving of the channel bed of Wills Creek, paving of adjacent slopes, construction of flood levee walls and the installation of necessary drainage facilities.

At least 23 more easements are expected to be filed in connection with the city's flood control system, Clark said.

The list included property owned by Edwin F. Knippenberg, James O. Kearns, Charles L. and Regina F. Jewell, Algonquin Hotel Corporation, Frank R. and Martha Blaul, Mary M. Cage, George L. and Loretta Carney, Pearl Damm, George F. Deffenbaugh, Raymond G. Hardman, James T. Johnson Jr., Floyd W. and Dolores Kaylor, Owen A. Layman, Willard E. and Frances Miller, John B. and Regina M. Schaaf, George B. and Freda M. Showalter and the Queen City Brewing Company.

September River Flow Above Normal

During September the observed mean daily flow of the Potomac River here (measured at the Wiley Ford gage) was 422 cubic feet per second (273 million gallons per day).

This is 121 per cent of the 27 year September average. The daily flow varied between 380 million gallons on September 7 and 199 million gallons September 23.

A decrease in storage in Savage River Dam caused an average increase of 47.9 million gallons or 17.6 per cent of the flow in the river here.

The increase in flow due to release of water from the dam during August should have been reported as 2.6 rather than 25.6 per cent of the total flow, according to the local Geological Survey office here.

Total rainfall in Cumberland, as reported by the Weather Bureau, was 3.31 inches, which was .56 inches above the September average. The average daily temperature was 63.5 degrees, which was 2.5 degrees below normal.

Game Commission Will Consider Changes In Law

The Game and Inland Fish Commission will consider proposed regulations, two of which affect Garrett County, at a public meeting this month in Baltimore.

Harold S. Kolmer, assistant director of the commission, said the meeting will be held Friday, October 19, in the Rose Room of the Lord Baltimore Hotel at 7:30 p.m.

One of the proposals to be considered would amend the regulation pertaining to Cherry Creek in the state's westernmost county. As it now stands Cherry Creek is a fly stream only, and the proposed change will make it a permanent trout stream with any type of lure permitted, although other restrictions will be retained.

Also to be considered at the meeting, Kolmer said, will be an amendment pertaining to boats on Deep Creek Lake in Garrett County. Scheduled for discussion is a ruling which states that "all licensed boats on Deep Creek Lake shall display a license plate, issued with the purchase of each license, conspicuously at all times on the port (left) bow."

First Postponement Since '51 Shelves 2nd Series Tilt

Rain Causes Delay, Today To Be Clear

Neither Team Happy Over Cancellation; Rest To Help Maglie

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4 (AP)—For the first time since 1951, rain caused the postponement of a World Series game today, shelving the second game between the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers until tomorrow at Ebbets Field.

The weather forecast for tomorrow is "clear and cool". Today's showers were expected to continue through the night.

The postponement, following a conference of Commissioner Ford Frick, the opposing managers and the umpires, was announced shortly after 11 a.m. That was about two hours before scheduled game time — before many ticket holders started for the ball park.

Those using the subways for transportation to Ebbets Field were informed of the postponement over public address systems in the larger stations.

Preferred To Play

Neither Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers, who won yesterday's opener 6-3, nor Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees looked upon the postponement as helpful or detrimental to their chances.

Both would have preferred, however, to have played today, even though the extra day's rest may be a help to the Dodger pitching staff, which was overworked during Brooklyn's frantic finish in the National League pennant race.

With the rain, the entire series schedule is moved back a day. The first two games were scheduled for Ebbets Field, with the series to have moved to Yankee Stadium for the next three games beginning tomorrow.

Now, assuming tomorrow's weather will permit play, the first game in the Stadium will be played Saturday, with game No. 4 at the Stadium Sunday and No. 5, if necessary, there Monday.

If the sixth and seventh games are necessary, they'll be played at Ebbets Field Tuesday and Wednesday.

Both Alston and Stengel stuck to their original pitching selections for the game.

Newcombe To Start

Don Newcombe, a big right-hander with 27 victories in the regular season, will start for the Dodgers. Alston said, however, that the extra day of rest may harm Newcombe's control. "he pitches best after three days rest, not four."

The Yankees' starting pitcher will be Don Larsen.

Alston didn't contemplate any lineup changes, but might shift left fielder Sandy Amoros from eighth to sixth position in the batting order.

Stengel said he might put Jerry Coleman on second and shift Billy Martin to third. That would bench third baseman Andy Carey. Casey added he also might play Joe Collins at first base instead of Bill Skowron, who was hitless in the opener.

Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for president, will attend tomorrow's game at Ebbets Field. He originally was scheduled to appear at the Stadium, but his campaign committee said he has tickets for Ebbets Field now.

President Eisenhower appeared at yesterday's opener.

RECEIVE GOLF ASSOCIATION AWARDS—Three members of the two mixed Scotch foursome teams which tied for the title received awards last night at the dinner sponsored by the men's and women's golf associations at the Cumberland Country Club. Mrs. Fuller B. Whitworth, president of the women's association, center, presented the prizes to the members of one team, Mrs. John Moberly, left, and Clifton Van Roby, second from left. Also presented an award as a member of the other team was Mrs. Somerville Nicholson, right. Rev. Ray Richardson, the second member of Mrs. Nicholson's team, was not present at the dinner. William A. Douglas, president of the CCC, second from right, looks on. Roby, president of the men's association, was master of ceremonies at the affair which was attended by 100 persons.

Court Refuses Tambo Request

Judge Rules That Induction Stands

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4 (AP)—Frank Tamburello, drafted Monday virtually off the University of Maryland campus where he had been a star football quarterback, was turned down today in a court move to get out of the Army.

Federal Judge R. Dorsey Watkins refused to order the 22-year-old Tamburello's draft board to reconsider their June 22 classification which led to his induction.

The judge took note that it received "consideration up and down the line." He mentioned it had been upheld by the state appeals board, been referred to the state and national selective directors and a letter written by Tamburello to President Eisenhower about it.

Tamburello had based his appeal for relief to the federal court on a petition claiming his draft board had not considered up-to-date information about his college studies when they withdrew his exemption as a student, that he was not granted all his rights, and that "prejudice or bias" was involved.

The board said Tamburello had lost his exemption because he would not receive his diploma along with his class next June.

Tamburello, after submitting three different forms from the University, claimed the last showed he can earn enough credits for a degree after next summer school and thus be finished in four years.

Spinks Is Traded To N. Y. Giants

GREEN BAY, Wis., Oct. 4 (AP)—The Green Bay Packers of the National Football League today traded offensive guard Jack Spinks to the New York Giants for a future draft choice.

Spinks, in his fourth season of NFL play, was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers as a back in 1952 and traded to the Chicago Cardinals the following year.

The Packers acquired the 6-1, 240-pound Negro last year and converted him into a guard. He attended Little Alcorn, Miss., A. and M.

Series Notes

By ED CORRIGAN

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4 (AP) — Rainy day meanderings:

New York Yankees' Manager Casey Stengel isn't anti-Ebbets Field, mind you, but the place confuses him—something like some of the professor's oratory to newsmen ... "These ground rules around here," he growled while sitting out today's rainout, "they're too complicated... I've told my men just to keep running on anything that hits the right field screen."

Brooklyn Coach Billy Herman has a great time kidding Yank catcher Yogi Berra... When Herman spotted Yogi in the runway under the dugout, he yelled: "Hey Yogi, how's your umpiring?... "I haven't missed one all season," called back Yogi... He has a habit, irritating to the umpires, of calling strikes and balls ... They're all strikes, though.

The two old-timers of the World Series, Brooklyn pitcher Sal Maglie and New York outfielder Enos Slaughter, were holding court together ... "You know," said Maglie, the hero of the first Dodger victory, "if someone would have told me I'd be in another series two years ago, I'd have said: 'Thanks, but you're dreaming.' " ... "Well," said Slaughter, "this is my first series since 1946 (remember how he broke it up?) and there's still a little left.... 'I'll be giving it all I have and I must say I feel almost as good now as I did then."

If he gets into a tight spot tomorrow, Stengel probably will call on Johnny Kucks ... "Our ideal type of pitcher for Ebbets Field is that young fella," said Stengel, "because he makes 'em hit into the ground ... But he's been pitching better in the first six innings than in the last three lately, so he stays in the bullpen."

Someone asked catcher Roy Campanella how the Brooks were going to pitch to Mickey Mantle the rest of the series ... "Now that's something I ain't telling," grinned the roly-poly backstop ... "But we ain't going to be pitching to his power, that's for sure ... He's got too much of it ... If he's anxious enough, let him do some fishing." ... Which may mean that Sir Michael is going to do some strolling.

Light Heavy Bout Is Set Tonight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—Tony Anthony of New York, one of the few light heavyweight contenders, meets Clarence Hinnant, a hometown boy with a good knockout record, in a 10-round bout at Capitol Arena tomorrow night.

Anthony has a better than fair kayo punch, having stopped 21 of his 27 victims in 31 fights.

The New York boxer is Ring magazine's 7th ranked challenger for Archie Moore's light heavyweight crown but is unlisted by the National Boxing Assn.

Hinnant, 23-year-old Washingtonian, in recent matches stopped Al Andrews, Willie Troy and Julio Carreras, Cuban light heavyweight champ. In 29 contests since 1950, he has won 21 and knocked out 16.

The bout will be carried over a TV-radio hookup (NBC, 9 p. m. EST).

Jamieson Leads Small College Football Offenses

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP) — An array of underclassmen headed by Dick Jamieson of Bradley are in front in the battle for individual honors among the small college football players.

The first statistics released by the NCAA Service Bureau today shows Jamieson, a first year quarterback, leading in total offense with 424 yards, 368 of which was gained through the air, in two games.

Other individual leaders include George Sullivan, 178-pound junior halfback of Whitman, in rushing with 275 yards in two starts; Herbe Kipke, junior quarterback of Central Michigan, the forward passing leader with 20 completions in 27 attempts and John Cimino, Omaha's junior end, and Bill Meade, Bridgeport sophomore, who share pass receiving honors. Each has caught nine.

The lone senior among the department leaders is John Moffat of Hillsdale. He's the leading punter, with an average of 48.2 yards on five passes.

Baltimore's other Class D affiliation is with Harris, Tex.

Kershner Named Top Sophomore In ACC Games

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 4 (AP)—Ted Kershner, Maryland halfback who starred in the 6-0 win over Wake Forest last Saturday, today was named the Associated Press' Atlantic Coast Conference Sophomore of the Week.

Kershner, 175, of Martinsburg, W. Va., threw a fourth down six-yard pass to halfback Jack Healy on the goal line early in the second period for the only score to beat Wake Forest.

Kershner also turned in runs of 13 and 20 yards in the 60-yard drive that set up the touchdown.

Close behind Kershner in the nomination was Duke quarterback Bob Brodhead, who completed four of eight passes for 64 yards and a touchdown in the 40-7 win over Virginia.

Agajanian Says He'll Quit Again

LONG BEACH, Calif., Oct. 4 (AP)—Ben Agajanian, the placekick specialist, said today he is retiring again from pro football, mainly because the New York Giants won't let him commute between home and work.

Ben, 37, said he wants to be at home most of the time because he has three children, including a 3-week-old son, and because his business, a sporting goods store, demands his time.

"I've got just as much punch left, but I can't leave my family," said Agajanian.

Strongest Man To Wed Soon

TOCCOA, Ga., Oct. 4 (AP)—Paul Anderson, 23-year-old Georgian often hailed as the strongest man in the world, is engaged to be married.

Anderson's engagement to Patricia Gail Taylor, 17-year-old senior at Tallulah Falls High School, was reported today by Mrs. Charles Collins, grandmother of the bride-to-be. She said no date for the wedding has been set.

Young Anderson, a 300-pounder, is training for the Olympics, where his world records are expected to give the U.S. weight-lifting team an advantage.

Patricia Gail, tops the scales at 112.

Puerto Rico's Team Is Barred From Olympics

2 Other Nations Return To Fold

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Oct. 4 (AP)—The executive board of the International Olympic Committee today barred Puerto Rico's athletes from the 1956 games at Melbourne because of government interference and formally readmitted two other nations dropped for the same reason.

The action, taken at the last emergency session, before the Olympics open Nov. 22, followed last night's decision to suspend the rule requiring a declaration by athletes that they did not intend to turn professional.

Puerto Rico was removed from the list of competing nations because its national Olympic committee consisted of government appointees.

Avery Brundage, IOC president, said "certain local laws" were responsible and the board acted after the National Shooting Assn. of Puerto Rico protested, claiming that it had been excluded from the elections held in Puerto Rican sports federations.

Asked if it would be possible for Puerto Rico to set up an acceptable Olympic committee, Brundage said:

"There might be, but they would have to work very rapidly."

The board restored to good standing the national teams of Argentina (other than rowers) and Turkey, which previously were threatened with expulsion because of government interference with their national Olympic committees.

Although the board softened the rule against "intending" athletes to meet criticism from sports organizations, it took two actions concerning professionalism.

The board confirmed without reservation a recent decision of the International Rowing Federation to bar Argentina's oarsmen from the Olympics because of professionalism.

It decided to draw the attention of the Italian Olympic Committee to charges of professionalism made against Italy's world bicyle record holder Ercole Baldini. It left the responsibility of Baldini's olympic qualification up to the Italian committee.

LaSalle To Meet Highland Hall Eleven Here Tonight

Geatz Team Seeks First Grid Victory

Franciscan Priests Run Visiting School, Lach Is Grid Coach

The LaSalle Explorers, seeking their first triumph in their fourth game this season, will host a new rival on the locals' grid schedule tonight when Highland Hall Prep High School visits here for an 8 o'clock clash at Fort Hlil stadium.

The Highlanders, from Hollidaysburg, Pa., are coached by a former All-America football star from Duke University who later played professional ball with the Pittsburgh Steelers, Steve Lach.

Opening Game Of Season

This will be the opening game of the 1956 season for Highland Hall as the rather small school operated by Franciscan priests at Hollidaysburg has only a six-game schedule this year.

Fr. A. M. Domnick, T.O.R., is the athletic director at the school which has 78 students this year but is rapidly expanding.

The Highlanders will wear green and gold uniforms, matching their school colors. Co-captains for the visitors are John DeVincens, right tackle, and Edward Cheslock, left halfback.

Officials for the contest under the arcs will be Bobby Cavanaugh, John Blough, Larry Geiger and Charles Snider.

LaSalle, coached by Norman Geatz, has gotten off to a rocky start with three straight losses at the hands of Bedford, 35-7; Fort Hill, 33-7; and St. Francis (Pa.), 48-21.

Sentinels Seek 13th

The Highland Hall team will travel by bus from Hollidaysburg and is scheduled to arrive in Cumberland about 6:30 p. m. The team officials indicated 25 players will make the trip and the group will return immediately after the game to Hollidaysburg.

Also scheduled to do battle tonight will be Fort Hill's unbeaten Sentinels who will go after victory No. 13 at Frostburg when Coach Bill Hahn's eleven meets Beall High's Mountaineers at 8 p. m.

It will be teacher vs. pupil in this clash as Beall's first year mentor is Jimmy Manges, former grid great under Hahn at Fort Hill.

Beall, fresh from its 37-13 triumph over Southern High of Oakland last week, will seek its first win over the Sentinels. The game will be the seventh in the series between the two elevens and Fort Hill has copped the six played to date.

Jackets Meet Ridgeley

Fort Hill, victors in three straight games this season, will be heavily favored to make it seven in a row over the Mountaineers. Beall sports a 1-2 mark for the 1956 campaign.

On the Potomac Valley Conference front Moorefield High's unbeaten but once tied Yellowjackets go after triumph No. 4 in the circuit when they host Ridgeley High's once-beaten Blackhawks in their Hardy County domain.

Moorefield, under the tutelage of Coach Jonathan Paugh, has racked up Southern, 26-7; Petersburg, 25-13; and Romney, 33-6 in the PVC after opening the season with a scoreless tie in a non-conference game against Greenbank.

Ridgeley, riding the crest of a three-game winning streak, was derailed last Friday by Keyser's powerful Tornado eleven, 20-0. The Hawks have beaten an Alumni team, 30-13; Circleville, 27-0; and Berkeley Springs, 7-0, the latter two games conference tilts. Coach Thomas O'Connor is in his first year at the helm of the Mineral Countians. Moorefield has won nine, Ridgeley nine and two games ended in ties in their 20-game series.

Other Grid Rivalries

Other long-standing grid rivalries are on tap for today when Charles Town visits Martinsburg's Bulldogs; Romney's Pioneers host University High of Morgantown; and Franklin is at Petersburg in a PVC encounter.

Also listed for today are:

Southern, Oakland, at St. Francis, Morgantown.

Northern, Accident, at Terra Alta.

Berkeley Springs at Harpers Ferry.

Portage at Bedford.

Handley at Frederick (CVAL).

Chambersburg at Hagerstown.

LE	Firlie (61)	Bagley (25)

FANS WERE OUT EARLY AND GOT WET—Despite a light rain early in the day these fans were outside the park waiting for the gates to open at Ebbets Field so they could purchase tickets for the second World Series game between the Yankees and the Dodgers yesterday. A few came prepared with umbrellas and improvised coverings but it was all in vain. Continued rain which got heavier during the day caused the game to be postponed until today. (AP Photofax).

Senators May Go To Calif.

Griffith Reported Studying Move

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Washington Post and Times Herald said tonight that Calvin Griffith, president of the Washington baseball club, has disclosed he has under consideration a plan to move the club franchise to California, possibly Los Angeles for the 1957 season.

The newspaper said in a story from New York that Griffith made the disclosure to reporters who questioned him on the activity of California interests with whom he has been conferring during the World Series.

"If we make the move, the Griffith family will still retain control of the team," Griffith said. "We do not plan to sell to anybody."

Griffith said that any decision to move for the 1957 season would depend on American League approval of the transfer before Oct. 31, the deadline on any franchise shifts.

Stengel Plans Yankee Lineup Changes Today

Strategy Changed By Postponement

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4 (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel couldn't decide today whether the rain, which washed out the second game of the World Series, helped or hurt the New York Yankees' cause.

The postponement, first in five years, did cause the grizzled old manager, however, to change his planned strategy which he hoped would overcome the Brooklyn Dodgers' one-game edge.

"I had planned to make several changes in our lineup," Stengel told reporters in the visiting team's clubhouse at Ebbets Field immediately after the game had officially been called off. "But not before we got back to our own ball park for the third game.

Skowron May Be Replaced

"Now, I am of a mind to make the changes for tomorrow's game. I plan to shift Billy Martin to third base in place of Andy Carey and play Jerry Coleman at second. Also I am thinking of playing Joe Collins at first base in place of Bill Skowron."

Stengel said he had given some thought to switching his pitching choice for the second game from Don Larsen to Tom Sturdivant but after talking the matter over with his pitching coach, Jim Turner, he decided to stick to his original selection.

"It was a choice of those two," he said, "but I see no reason why I shouldn't pitch Larsen. After all, he was my best pitcher the last month of the season."

It was raining only slightly when the game was officially called off by Commissioner Ford Frick, following a 15-minute conference with the six umpires and the two managers. Asked whether he agreed with the decision, Stengel nodded in the affirmative.

Commissioner "Right"

"I think the commissioner did right," he said. "The forecast was for a heavy downpour later in the afternoon. Nobody likes to play in the rain and nobody likes to sit in it, too. How would you feel if your team filled the bases, let us say in the seventh inning, with nobody out and the rain started coming down."

Did he think the rain helped or hurt his team's chances?

"How can I answer that one?" was the retort. "I'm no mind reader. I'll say this, however. Our team don't need a day off because I think we're well rested. After all, we haven't had to worry very hard for several weeks."

Dodgers' Pilot Sees Good, Bad In Series Delay

Alston Has Maglie "Again For Sure"

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4 (AP)—Dodger Manager Walter Alston, "just sitting at home, relaxing," didn't know whether today's World Series postponement will help or hurt his world champions, "but it gives me Maglie again for sure."

"I'd have liked to have played today," said Alston. "We're hitting pretty good and I'd like to go ahead while we're hot.

"And I guess maybe the extra day may make Don Newcombe better. But it could hurt him, too. You never can tell about those things.

"But it does give me (Sal) Maglie again for sure. With the extra day's rest he should be ready now for the fifth game, Monday."

That's the way Alston looked at today's rain-caused postponement of the second game in the 1956 World Series—the first series postponement since 1951.

Layoff Helped Yanks In '51

Back in 1951, the layoff helped the New York Yankees, who trailed the New York Giants two games to one when rain shelved the fourth game for 24 hours. Allie Reynolds, the Yankees "big man," had been beaten in the opener at Yankee stadium and the Yankee staff had been worn out in the first three.

But Reynolds came back with the extra day's rest and beat the Giants 6-2 with an eight-hitter to knot the series. The Yankee's then wrapped up the world championship in the next two games.

Oddly enough, it was Maglie who lost the pivotal fourth game to Reynolds. It was Sal's first start in the series and he was tagged for eight hits and four runs in his five innings.

Now the rain may help Maglie, the 39-year-old Cinderella man of the Dodgers' staff who's been on a steady schedule of working with only three days rest in between. In his last three starts he's come through with his first no-hitter, a clutch six-hitter that helped Brooklyn to the pennant and then a 6-3 victory in yesterday's series opener.

Sal For Fifth Game

"I've had Sal in mind to start that fifth game," said Alston, "but only if he said he was all right. I don't know how much more we can expect from Sal with such a short rest. He's been wonderful.

"But now, with an extra day's rest, I should have him again for sure."

Maglie said he'd be ready "if the skipper wants me."

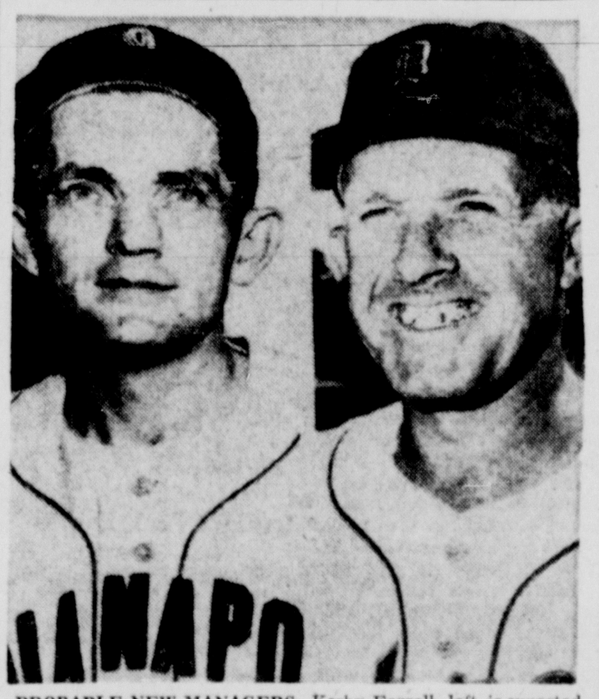
Newcombe, a moody guy, was cheerful, but would have preferred to pitch today. "Ive been working regularly with just three days rest," said the big righthander, "and that extra day maybe you'll miss the corner."

Newk, 30, is 0-3 in World Series play, losing twice to the Yankees in 1949 and once last year. He's been tagged a "choke up" guy who "can't win the big ones." But Newcombe gruffly answers the critics with "when you win 27, some of 'em gotta be big."

Fair Weather Forecast Today

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4 (AP) — Fair weather for the second game of the World Series at Ebbets Field tomorrow is predicted by the Weather Bureau. Today's game was postponed because of rain.

The 6 p.m. EST forecast called for a few showers early tonight followed by clearing skies late tonight and fair weather on Friday. Temperatures which may reach 65 to 70 degrees also are predicted.



PROBABLE NEW MANAGERS—Kerby Farrell, left, is expected to become the new manager of the Cleveland Indians, and Jack Tighe, right, is in line to take over as pilot of the Detroit Tigers, according to reports from the two American League clubs. Farrell led the Indianapolis Indians to an American Association pennant and the Little World Series title this year. Tighe has been coach of the Tigers. (AP Photofax).

Elkins In Top Three Class A Football Teams

BECKLEY, W. Va., Oct. 4 (AP)—Elkins, Huntington East and Oak Hill are leading the state high school Class AA football teams in the season's first official rating released today.

Ripley tops the Class A schools with Ravenswood heading the Class B division.

The ratings, for games played through the weekend of Sept. 29, are incomplete, said W. R. Fugitt, executive secretary of the West Virginia High School Athletic Assn. which sponsors the rating system used to determine the three state football champions.

Fugitt said his office had not received scores of several games played.

The system is based upon the performance of each team in season competition, plus the performance of each team's opponents.

Elkins leads the pack in the total rating points but is tied with Huntington East and Oak Hill in the average rating per game — the determining factor in the final state rankings.

Navy Has Light Football Workout

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 4 (AP)—Navy's football squad held a light workout today to complete home practice for the Cornell game Saturday and will enplane tomorrow morning for Ithaca.

Coach Eddie Erdelatz plans to take a squad of 38 players on the Middies' first road trip of the season, working them out briefly on arrival tomorrow afternoon (3 p. m. EST).

The squad remained sound physically and with no change in the starting lineup which Erdelatz promoted in its entirety from a second string status earlier this

It's Even Money On Series Today

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4 (AP)—It's an even money bet on the second game of the World Series tomorrow.

The Yankees were favored 6-5 to take the second game had it been played today but when rain forced postponement of the contest the bookmakers shortened the price on the Dodgers, figuring the extra day of rest benefits Don Newcombe, Brooklyn ace righthander.

And on the series it's still a pick-'em affair.

Valley High's defending champions and Bruce High's Bulldogs, both undefeated in Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League play this season, will host games today in the five-team circuit.

Mt. Savage's Braves will visit Bruce seeking their first league win, having lost to Valley and tied Beall. Bruce's only game resulted in a 2-2 deadlock with Valley.

Valley, winner 5-3 over Mt. Savage and tied by Bruce, goes after win No. 2 today against Flintstone's winless Aggies. Flintstone lost its only start to Beall, 4-2.

Officials will be Henry Stafford and Bill Kirk at Bruce and Clifton Van Roby and Cecil Warnick at Valley.

Pitt Readies For California Tilt

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 4 (AP)—The Pittsburgh football team arrived today by plane for their game Saturday with the University of California.

Coach Johnny Michelosen promptly sent the squad through a light workout. Tomorrow morning members of the squad will go on a sight seeing tour and hold another light practice.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 4 (INS)—Whether red-headed Rhonda Fleming had a date over the weekend to patch up her stormy marriage to Dr. Lew Morrill or not, she definitely has a date to report to MGM immediately for "Gun Glory" with Stewart Granger. It's Rhonda's first picture on the MGM lot and instead of the glamor girl she usually plays, she'll be the heroine of a western.

Nick Nayfack, the producer, tells me that he and Director Roy Rowland are already scouting locations in three western states—but haven't yet made up their minds where they will start shooting. As the picture is scheduled to start the end of the month, they'll have to decide pretty quick.

For months Josanne Berenger, one time fiancee of Marlon Brando, has been studying for an acting career under her real name of Josanne Mariani. Now she makes her stage debut as star in Vanessa Brown's stage play, "Europa and the Bull," which goes into rehearsal November 14.

Vnaessa prepared this play when she was appearing in "Seven Year Itch" in New York and then packed it away in her trunk and forgot about it. She has rewritten it along lines suggested by Bennett Cerf.

Funny thing—Josanne' engagement to Brando was never announced officially as over, but it obviously is ended.

That very canny Hungarian honey, Zsa Zsa Gabor, complete with maid and three dogs, is getting the same salary she received in Las Vegas to beat the tom-toms for "Death of a Scoundrel" in Bob O'Donnell's theatres in Texas. She'll wear the same gowns, but how they'll go over in the South remains to be seen.

Producer Charles Martin was able to borrow $1,000,000 to make "Scoundrel" starring Zsa Zsa, her ex-husband George Sanders and Yvonne De Carlo, a large hunk of which went to La Gabor for her salary and her tour.

It is said to be based on the life of Serge Rubenstein, who was murdered in his apartment. At one time Rubenstein's mother threatened suit.

A spectacle such as I never expected to see is Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments." His latest picture, "The Greatest Show on Earth" grossed 23 million dollars. I can't hazard a guess how much this fabulous religious epic will gross.

But I do know that Charlton Heston seemed inspired by his role of Moses and Yvonne De Carlo gives a surprisingly fine and different performance as Sephara. The dividing of the Red Sea and the many photographic wonders, makes this a picture that should live forever.

"The Ten Commandments" comes at an important time in the history of the world when religion is so badly needed. It also proves that Cecil B. DeMille is not only a great director, but a great man.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Aly Khan is so eager to marry Bettina that he plans to file suit for divorce from Rita Hayworth in Switzerland. The French courts refuse to recognize their Nevada divorce.

Mona Freeman says the only thing wrong with the gossip that she's dating Fred Astaire is that there's not a word of truth in it.

The wing of the plane bringing Diana Dors' husband, Dennis Hamilton, back to America caught fire four hours out of New York. A frightening experience.

Deborah Kerr has been sent the script of "The Reluctant Debutante" to Tobago, West Indies. She saw the play in London and liked it.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Gleason Returns Live

Jackie Gleason returned to the land of the living on Saturday and he was immense, a word subject to a number of interpretations, all of which he fitted. The return of Gleason to live television from the rococo graveyard of filmed television is a great victory for those of us who consider live entertainment the only respectable way for a comedian to earn his living in this medium.

Gleason also temporarily abandoned "The Honeymooners," which he has been doing exclusively on TV, for most of his other stable of regular characters which have been sorely missed. The Poor Soul had a tussle with one of those beds that pull out of a closet and, of course, lost it. Joe the Bartender groused about the picturesque habitues who hang around that saloon, and Reggie Van Gleason III, the preposterously useless rich man's son, mixed himself lethal drinks that threw him to the floor.

In all of this Gleason exhibited that exuberance and vitality and abundance of talent that were the hallmarks of the old program. The show had bounce and variety and tore through an hour as if it were half that time. My sole complaint was a parade of celebrities near the beginning of the show in which a pretty good gag was done just 10 minutes too long. "The Honeymooners" is a very sound half hour sketch but I devoutly hope Gleason never again gets himself trapped into one format. There isn't a format that has ever been devised that doesn't wear thin after 39 weeks.

A full season for live full hour shows sounds brutal on Gleason but I can remember way back in the days of Milton Berle when he used to do it all the time. Gleason himself says that once a week is tough on material, not tough on him. For his current season his six permanent writers have been working on the new series since June 1. They already have six shows ready and twelve blocked out. So far as is known, no similar show ever started the season with six shows all ready.

Gleason insists all the characters he creates stay strictly in character. "It's the consistency of these characters," says his script editor Joe Bigelow, "that has kept him alive. And though we have writers who have been on the show many years, Jackie knows the characters better than anyone." There are rules, Bigelow pointed out, for what characters can and can't do.

"Take the Poor Soul. He doesn't speak. He can't have a job, which narrows the field considerably. If a girl is involved he must be rejected by her. He can't indulge in any luxuries or have many worldly possessions. For awhile he couldn't even have a girl, but an idea for an elopment came along that was so good he was finally allowed to have one. Another basic idea of Jackie's is that there must be a foundation of truth in the sketch. Even when dealing with Reggie, the basic situation must be something that could happen.

All the people Gleason talks about in his Joe the Bartender skit are real people from his old neighborhood in Brooklyn where he grew up. Mr. Dennehy, the unseen person to whom he addresses all his remarks, was a grown man (that's his name, too) when Gleason was a kid. All the kids including Gleason use to take their troubles to him. Bookshelf Robinson, the erudite saloon character, was the bookish kid in Gleason's crowd and is today an English professor.

Gleason has eight old standbys—Ralph the Bus Driver, the Loud Mouth, Ruby the Repairman, Reggie Van Gleason, the Poor Soul, Joe the Bartender, Fenwick Babbitt, and Mother Fletcher—and he thinks those will keep the audience well pleased for the first part of the season. The Honeymooners will be seen every third week or so.

However, he has a couple of new characters he and Art Carney will do later. One is a clam-opener, the other a hot-dog vender. They haven't decided who will do which part yet. "They're two guys I saw down at the Staten Island Ferry," says Gleason. "I eased over and dug what they were saying. Neither one had any teeth and Carney and I will do it as if we haven't any. They comment on the girls going by and discuss the world's problems.

"This business," he added, "is just like the North Pole. You sit down you freeze to death. You gotta keep moving."

Two Permits Issued For New Residences

Building permits for two West Side residences which will cost an estimated $40,000 have been approved by the City Engineer's office.

George Young obtained a permit to build a one-story brick veneer dwelling 73 feet by 40 feet at 744 Washington Street for an estimated $25,000. The building will have a 30 foot setback from the street. The contractors are Johnson and Goss.

The other residence, a two-story dwelling with garage in the rear, will be built by Henry Dressman at 753 Fayette Street for an estimated $15,000. It will have a 20-foot setback from Fayette Street and will be built on a 44 by 100 foot lot. Dressman is building the house for A. G. Wallis.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 hearts	Pass
6 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of spades.

A pecular mixture of science and blasting is to be found in South's bidding technique in today's hand. After receiving the encouraging jump response from partner, South quite properly contemplated slam. In fact, no fault could be found with the direct jump to slam after the raise, but South decided to employ Blackwood and learned that his partner had two aces. This by no means insured the slam, since both North's aces might have been red and it is possible that two club tricks could be lost at once. But South was willing to take his chances.

However, we are not concerned at the moment with the method of reaching the contract, which, it must be conceded, is difficult to avoid due to the duplication of values.

The ten of spades was opened and taken by declarer, who immediately drove out the ace of hearts. A spade was returned and now South felt that his only chance was to find a singleton king of clubs. When this failed to come off he resigned himself to down one. The singleton king of clubs was not declarer's only hope. If the king were alone the cards would actually play themselves. But there was an additional chance. That was that the ace of hearts was alone, not a remote contingency, since there were only three trumps out, and that the player who held that card also had the king of clubs.

On this line of reasoning, declarer should cash the second spade and the three diamonds, discarding a club from dummy, and then lead the king of hearts. At this point East will be in and any lead he makes costs him a trick. A diamond or spade permits declarer to discard another club out of dummy. A club lead permits declarer to win with the queen.

Those who manifest a venturesome bent during the auction, ought to be fully equipped with the facilities to take advantage of good breaks.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, Mary Giantzer, who passed away four years ago, today, October 5, 1952.
Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.
LOVING HUSBAND AND CHILDREN

Brief Report Ends Program Of Grand Jury

Roadside Litter Draws Emphasis

Twenty-nine indictments were returned by the October grand jury in Allegany County Circuit Court, which wound up its four days of activity yesterday afternoon by submitting a five-page report to Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Most of the report concerned two questions upon which Judge Harris focused attention in his charge to the grand jury Monday morning. They are the dumping of trash, refuse or litter along the public roads and highways of Allegany County, and the proposed establishment of a position of sealer or inspector of weights and measures.

The report discloses that law enforcement officers of all Allegany County communities were requested to make a special effort to apprehend any person who might be violating the state law pertaining to trash and litter. The officers promised an effort to apprehend such law violators.

Dumping Spots Designated

J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian with the Health Department has designated 12 specific places in the county for dumping for incorporated towns, and nine other places for unincorporated towns.

The grand jurors also were informed by Dowling that 129 unsightly trash dumps have been eliminated since April. Placards specifying "no dumping" have been erected throughout the county. In addition, where interstate roads connect with Maryland roods, seven "no dumping" signs have been erected and 10 more are in the process of being placed.

Dowling also reported that 1,049 trash piles have been eliminated since April. A program has been arranged whereby each operator of a drive-in theatre or custard stand is responsible for trash on his own property. State Roads Commission employes also have been assigned to pick up trash in accordance with an SRC directive.

The grand jury also stated that Dowling has recommended that the incorporated towns should make every effort to improve roads leading to their dumps so that county citizens will not throw out their litter before reaching the dumping area.

May Bury Garbage

The State Health Department, in cooperation with the City of Cumberland, is considering the burying of garbage at the city dump to eliminate the smoke factor now prevalent. The department also has ordered the owner of Willowbrook Road premises to eliminate the trash and litter on his property within two months.

The county commissioners have offered a standing reward of $50 to any person obtaining evidence resulting in a conviction of those dumping trash, rubbish or litter upon the roads or highways.

Concerning the weights and measures problem the grand jury reported having heard from William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of County Commissioners; Mayor Roy W. Eves of Cumberland, Mayor Joseph James of Frostburg, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan of Cumberland, Assistant Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney, Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the county commissioners and City Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

The grand jury was advised that the county commissioners and the Mayor and City Council two years ago discussed the establishment of the sealer's position. The cost of the necessary equipment was estimated at $40,000 plus the cost of salaries of those persons to carry out the work.

Sealer Required

Present law requires that cities of over 35,000 population have a sealer or inspector. However, cities and counties with less than 35,000 population have the services of equipment owned by the State of Maryland and operated by one of its employes without cost.

County and city officials propose that the present act of the General Assembly be amended increasing to 100,000 population those cities required to have a sealer or inspector of weights and measures. This would make the municipalities of Allegany County and the county itself eligible to have this service provided by the state without cost.

The grand jury has left it to the office of the State's Attorney to confer with city officers to determine what procedure would be followed with respect to the enforcement of the law requiring coal dealers to properly weigh their coal.

Except for the sections on trash dumping and weights and measures the report was exceptionally brief. The report notes that 61 witnesses were heard in four days.

Institutional Report

The report concerning the various county institutions was consolidated into a single paragraph. It simply stated that committees from the grand jury inspected the Court House, County Jail, County Infirmary, County Home, Sylvan Retreat and books of the county treasurer. Conditions in all of these departments and buildings was found satisfactory and the grand jury felt that no further comment is necessary. Commendations were ex

Miller of Upper Marlboro, second from right, is shown citing one of the changes. Looking on, left to right, are County Agent Joseph M. Steger, in whose office the meeting was held; B. Beeson Snyder, FHA supervisor for Garrett and Allegany counties, and N. R. Quesenberry of Baltimore, who is employed in the FHA program loan office there. Supplemental Idle Pay Plan To Be Mapped

Negotiators for Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will sit down next week to begin working out details of a supplemental unemployment benefit plan.

The talks are slated to begin Tuesday at the local tire plant, according to A. E. Johnson, vice president of Local 26.

The company and union reached an agreement in principle on the plan during talks on a wage agreement reached early in August.

The wage pact provided the company to place three cents an hour for each employe into a fund to supplement state unemployment benefits.

Details of how the fund will operate, service requirements and the length of time benefits will be paid are to be worked out in the upcoming talks.

In general, the plan will be designated to boost unemployment benefits to 65 per cent of a worker's take-home pay.

A rough example would be like this: a worker gets $100 a week, and has $85 left after federal and state taxes are deducted, and 65 per cent of this take-home pay would be about $55.

The fund would provide about $25 a week to boost the $30 received from Unemployment Compensation to about $55.

Fire Damages 5-Room House

Fire seriously damaged a frame home on Eastman Road last night, but firemen from two volunteer companies managed to save the house and all the furniture.

The five-room frame home is occupied by a Shaffer family, firemen said. It is located about a mile from Nave's Cross Road.

Three trucks and 20 men from Baltimore Pike and Bedford Road companies were sent to the scene when the alarm was sounded about 9 p. m. They found the attic a mass of flames, but quickly confined the blaze to the upper story.

Firemen lugged out all the family's furniture except a cedar chest, which was burned. Some of the furniture was water-damaged, but fire damage was confined to the attic and part of one room on the floor below. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Garrett County Is Host To Autumn Glory Time

Sightseers from Baltimore, Washington and the Silver Spring area will board the "Autumn Glory" Special Sunday morning and travel via B&O passenger train to the mountains of Garrett County to visit scenic spots there.

Officials of the excursion announced yesterday that bus transportation will be provided for some 700 persons, and the sightseers will travel to Herrington Manor, Swallow Falls, Deep Creek Lake and a large turkey farm located in that county.

A similar excursion is planned for the following Sunday, October 14 and is being promoted by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council and the Chamber of Commerce of Oakland in cooperation with the railroad.

A highlight of the day's excursion will be a display in the Swallow Falls recreation area which will be sponsored by the Maryland Department of Forest and Parks in observance of the 50th anniversary of that organization.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said guided tours of that area will be in charge of Forestry Department personnel who will show the visitors historical places and beauties of nature located in the rustic area.

The program at Swallow Falls, as well as the excursion, is open to the public. During their stay at the recreation site, the excursionists will be able to get box lunches — including turkey sandwiches—which will be served by members of the Turkey Growers Association.

Laying the groundwork for this year's event were Helmuth M. Heise, president of the council; Irvin R. Rudy Jr., vice president of the Chamber; John Carroll, B&O passenger representative; Johnson, and R. Thomas Thayer, assistant district forester.

The tour of the scenic spots of Garrett County will begin at Oakland about 1 p. m. and conclude about 5:30 p. m.

Phone Service Is Normal As Strike Spreads

Telephone service remained virtually normal here yesterday as line crews, installers and business office workers observed a picket line set up by operators Tuesday.

Officials said service was normal throughout the day, except for occasional delays when the traffic load was greatest.

The local exchange was being operated by supervisory personnel, augmented yesterday by several supervisors from Hagerstown.

The electronic marvel which is the local dial center continued to operate as usual, and no trouble was reported with local calls handled by dial equipment.

Pickets parading in front of the dial center carried a sign reading, "Maryland Traffic Union, Inc., on strike."

The operators, represented by that union, struck Tuesday as a result of a contract dispute. Other workers, represented by the Communications Workers of America, yesterday refused to cross the picket lines set up by operators.

Mrs. Margaret C. Weiss, president of the 3,100-member operator's union, said in Baltimore no meetings are scheduled but she is "ready and willing" to sit down at the bargaining table.

The union is seeking a $4.50 a week wage boost and the end of geographic pay differentials. For Cumberland, the company has offered to boost rates for operators by $2.50 a week to bring the top rate to $61.

There was personnel on hand in the business office to take payments on bills. Some persons did not cross the picket lines, however, to pay their bills.

It was understood all workers are observing the picket lines at Frostburg where several staff employes are operating the manual system.

Rain Dulls GOP Plans; Coeds Brighten Day

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4 (AP) — Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md) got a wet send-off and the Republican "Kitchen Kabinet" got a wet reception here today.

Rain marred the campaign activities of Butler, who left on a meet-the-voters tour of Kent County, and of the Cabinet wives, who made a brief stop in Baltimore on their way to Delaware.

Butler was on hand to greet the Eisenhower bandwagon at a downtown hotel. The bandwagon, a trailer whose sponsors emphasized they are "Citizens for Eisenhower" instead of Republicans, came into Maryland for a tour of Baltimore and outlying Towson, Essex and Dundalk.

Ten Goucher College girls in red and white dresses splattered with "Ike" prints helped Butler greet the bandwagon.

The Republican senator posed for pictures with the Goucher girls but he didn't dally because of the steady rain and his Eastern Shore date.

He wound up the day's activities with a sally into Elkton, Cecil County, for a fund-raising dinner. Money raised by the affair will be used for the campaigns of Butler and Rep. Edward T. Miller, the Republican incumbent from the Eastern Shore District (First).

The Cabinet wives, bound for a Wilmington meeting of the Delaware Federation of Republican Women, arrived by chartered bus in front of the downtown hotel serving as party campaign headquarters.

As they began stepping off the bus, a fresh downpour of rain forced cancellation of elaborate greeting ceremonies.

The group included the wives of George M. Humphrey, treasury secretary; Herbert Brownell Jr., attorney general; Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, Jr.; Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture, and five sub-Cabinet officials.

Advance Gifts Victory Is In Sight

Early Chest Pledges Reach $68,918 Mark

Victory is in sight, Edmund S. Burke, chairman of the Advance Gifts committee, reported yesterday at a report meeting of that Community Chest campaign unit.

In his jubilant report, Burke said the Advance Gifts committee has raised $68,918 of its $73,000 quota, and challenged workers to follow through on 54 outstanding accounts.

The Advance Gifts goal amounts to 52 per cent of the $137,286.68, which is needed to maintain the nine Red Feather agencies during the coming year.

Lewis J. Ort, general chairman, said Burke plans to announce victory for the Advance Gifts workers at the campaign's kickoff dinner Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Set $5,000 Goal

Contractors and craft unions building the $34,000,000 plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plan the kickoff of their Chest fund drive Monday.

Leaders of the drive, who include the contractors and union business agents and shop stewards, were all present yesterday at a meeting held on the site to complete plans for the drive.

Charles Cross, chairman, and Howard Turner, of Consolidated Engineering Company, co-chairman, said a voluntary goal of $5,000 was set.

Assisting in the campaign will be Capt. Daniel Biggs and William G. Rice, of the staff of the Classified Division of the united fund drive.

Plans for the Residential Division drive were launched yesterday at a tea held in B'er Chayim Temple and attended by some 75 women.

Home Visits Planned

Dr. Lillian C. Compton, chairman, said ladies will visit homes through the week of October 8-13, although October 10 has been designated as Residential Division Day.

A goal of $5,500 has been set for the Residential Division in visits to some 15,000 homes in the Cumberland area.

Miss Compton said women of the area will be asked to make Community Chest investments in community betterment over and above those made by their husbands.

"We want every woman to have an investment in the well being of the community," she said.

The meeting featured a training session and the distribution of pledge cards to captains and workers.

Politics Out, Politicians In At Dinner

There will be no politics on the program at the annual dinner meeting of the Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland Wednesday, October 17, at St. Mary's Recreation Hall, but candidates for the U. S. Senate and the House of Representative have been invited to attend.

J. Goodloe Jackson, executive secretary of the association, said last night that both candidates for Congress have accepted. They are DeWitt S. Hyde, Republican, who is seeking his third term in the House of Representatives, and John R. Foley, his Democratic opponent. Both are from Montgomery County.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall also has signified his intention of attending. The two men vying for Maryland's other seat in the Senate have not yet accepted, although they are reportedly attempting to make an appearance here. They are the incumbent, John Marshall Butler, Republican, and George P. Mahoney, his Democratic opponent.

Between 600 and 700 independent retail grocers are planning to attend the dinner meeting. Visiting grocers from Cambridge, Baltimore, Frederick and Hagerstown are expected, including R. G. Gray of Cambridge, president of the state association, and Joseph L. Manning of Baltimore, secretary-manager of the state association.

A dinner and floor show will constitute the program at which the heads of Allegany and Garrett county industries will be the special guests of honor.

Hunters Asked To Assist In Averting Fires

With the opening of the hunting season on squirrels and wild turkeys in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties today, William H. Johnson, district forester, is urging nimrods to use care in preventing forest fires.

Many hunters who trek into the woods are sometimes a little careless with their lighted cigarets and campfires, and often unnecessary destruction of valuable timber results.

Johnson, in seeking the cooperation of hunters, urged that they report any unattended fires. The forest fire towers were being readied for the season's opening today.

Personnel of the department will keep a steady vigil throughout the hunting season to keep down fires and prevent property destruction.

With continued dry spells of three or more days during the fall season the fire hazard can rise to the danger point. This year in District 1 including Allegany, Garrett, Washington, and Frederick counties, there have been 44 forest fires which scorched over an area of 83 acres, Johnson reported.

Due to the frequent rains of the past summer, there have been no known forest fires in the district. Fifteen of the fires were due to carelessness of smokers; 11 due to careless brush burners; seven of incendiary origin; eight because of the railroads and three miscellaneous fires.

There were a total of 297 forest fires throughout the state this year including damage to 713 acres of land.

Local School Children Are Included In Program Of Fire Prevention Week

An extensive program for the education of school children is an important phase of forthcoming Fire Prevention Week which will be observed throughout the nation from October 7 through October 13.

Local firemen will cooperate with volunteers of Allegany and Garrett counties as well as insurance agents of the two counties to make this year's observance the most successful to date.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker announced that colorful illustrated booklets entitled "What Do You Know About Fire?" a child's guide to fire safety, will be placed in the hands of school children next week.

As an added incentive for children to become "fire prevention conscious," small lapel buttons will be distributed when the local firemen visit the schools here.

Fire drills are being planned and supervised fires will be started in order that the youngsters will learn through experience just how fast fire can spread.

The booklet which is published by the National Board of Fire Underwriters contains a series of questions and answers. To find the answers, the youngster will be required to don his thinking cap.

The illustrations are invaluable in teaching the children the dangers of fire, what to do in an emergency, and also how to prevent unnecessary fires which can cost lives and property.

Chef Parker pointed out that the local department will make an effort to visit all elementary schools next week in the fire prevention education program.

The traditional fire safety drive is sponsored nationally by the national fire Protection Association in cooperation with the International Association of Fire Chiefs.
